

Serramonte Counselor's Work Moves in 'Blocks'

By NANCY STANCILL

Gwen Mallory has learned in 12 years of youth probation work not to expect too much, too soon.

"You have blocks of improvement, blocks of lack of progress and blocks of nothing," the San Mateo County probation officer said.

"I'll have a student moving along well for two weeks; then zap, he cuts class one day and I don't see him again for a week," she commented. "I've always wondered if it was the time of year, the full moon or what."

As the special in-school probation officer at Serramonte High School in Daly City, Mrs. Mallory has ample opportunity to ponder students' behavior.

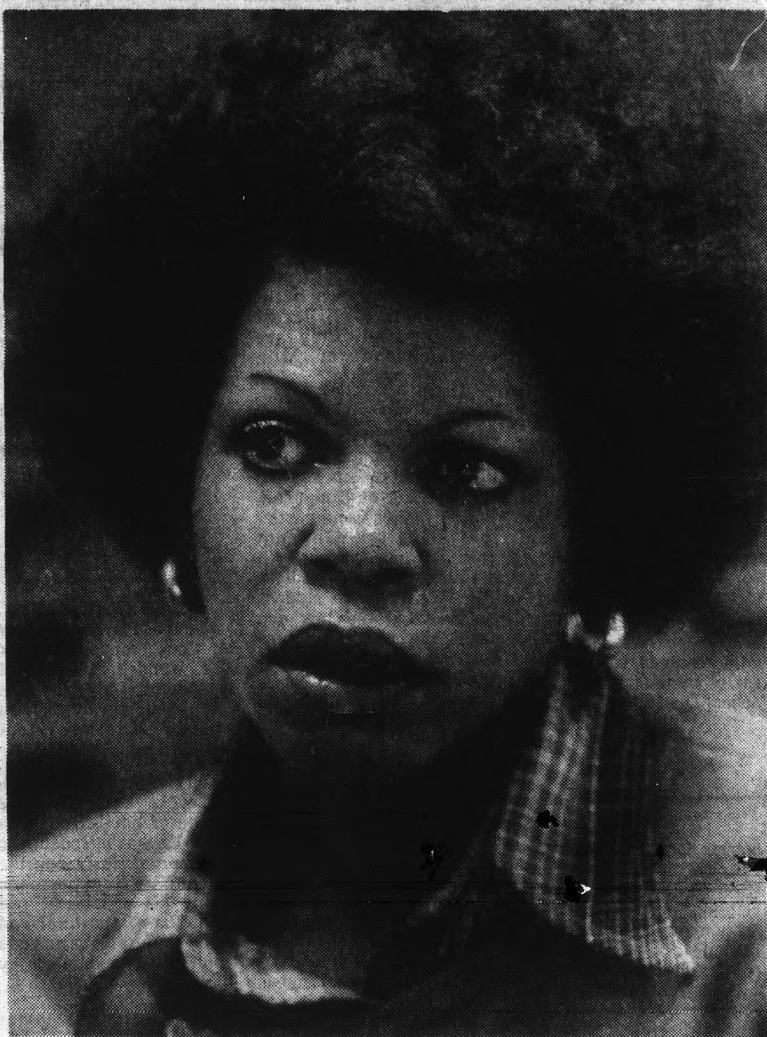

Mrs. Mallory began her work at Serramonte in September, in a pilot project there sponsored by San Mateo County and the Jefferson Union High School District.

The county probation department continues to pay her salary and the school district provides her with classroom space and office help.

Similar programs are in operation at two other county high schools, Sequoia High in Redwood City and South San Francisco High. Probation workers were assigned at the two schools last year and this year, it was decided to add the Daly City school.

Pacifica Balks Again At D.C. Dump Pact

After debating nearly 2½ hours Monday night, the Pacifica City Council still refused to reach an agreement with Daly City on a garbage disposal contract.

The council referred the matter back to a committee of representatives from both cities.

The stalemate was a blow to Daly City Mayor Al Teglia and City Manager David Rowe, who argued that Daly City must have a "yes" or "no" decision soon if it is to proceed with building a transfer station at Mussel Rock.

There is general agreement that the station would be too expensive to construct and operate without Pacifica's 70 tons of garbage to process each day.

The Pacifica council asked that negotiations resume as soon as possible and that the committee pay particular attention to the following proposals:

- That garbage rates be decided by a joint Pacifica-Daly City committee, with rates then directed to both city councils for formal approval.

- That salaries of managers employed by the Daly City Scavenger Co. be investigated. They would manage the transfer station.

- That resource recovery be explored.

- That fees be held to $17.95 per ton or less.

Rowe advised allowing the owner-operator of the station to set garbage rates, meaning the Daly City Scavenger Co. and the Daly City City Council.

Pacifica Councilman Mark Savage argued, "The management costs of the transfer station are too high."

Attorney Paul Hupf of the Daly City Scavenger Co. replied that a manager's salary of $30,000 a year would not seem unreasonable when the cost of employing a driver soon will be increased to $25,000.

Hupf also rebutted a warning by a Daly City resident, Harold Calder, who urged Pacifica's council to "look closely at the cost of the land for the dump site and how it was derived."

Hupf said Calder's statements were "erroneous and largely misleading."

Pacifica Mayor Sidney Lorvan demanded that rates be decided according to established principles.

The estimated cost of $17.95 per ton was explained as follows: $9.75 for taking garbage to Ox Mountain in Half Moon Bay, $5.77 for operation of the transfer station and $2.43 for the lease-purchase of the transfer station.

Pacifica Councilman Stanley Farber suggested that

Angered Stewart Quits D.C. Race

McRobert L. Stewart called it quits on his Daly City City Council service Monday night before a small but stunned group of council colleagues, city staff and public.

In a venomous blast at a North County weekly newspaper (The Daly City Record), Stewart charged that "They've taken a great community and dragged it into the dump — deep. They've printed garbage."

The 50-year-old Stewart, an eight-year council veteran, said he wouldn't be a candidate for re-election in the March municipal election and noted that the city's troubles with the newspaper began about three and a half years ago when it moved its plant out of the city and was asked to stop using the official city seal on its masthead. He had announced last month he would run again.

"I've sat here the last four years and heard a lot about the inefficiency of the city staff we've had on board. I think this isn't Daly City anymore; it's Sick City." Typical of the situation, he said, was when "I read one story in one paper (of a major public meeting) and comments of only three people were delivered to the people of this city."

"Redevelopment is dead because of this paper," he went on, referring to a rejection some time ago of a redevelopment plan for old Daly City. "No one approached me about the bulldozers (which opponents alleged would knock down that part of the city). If redevelopment had occurred then we wouldn't need it now."

Stewart conceded that he had voted against the redevelopment plan "because of the haggling. A majority of supporters weren't here to voice their support."

"Who's right? Who's wrong? I'm kind of glad I won't have to make those decisions much longer. What do we have in this chamber?" he asked, looking at the dozen spectators. "There are 70,000 people in this city. We get maybe 250 people at some meetings, but those are all special-interest people. They (the other 70,000) had better start coming. This town is on the slides and will be destroyed in another year or two without growth and redevelopment."

"Daly City has a lot of potential. I wish I could stay and be a part of it, but I can't. Wake up, Daly City, wake up quick," he concluded.

One man from the audience tried to rebut Stewart, but was gavelled down by Vice Mayor William Schumacher. The spectator was charging Stewart with "trying to blame this for his failure in office and blame the paper that tells the truth."

Stewart said he made his decision last Wednesday in Los Angeles while attending a meeting of the state Board of Registration for Professional Engineers. First appointed by former Gov. Ronald Reagan in 1973, he now is the senior member of the 11-member board which oversees certification of engineers and is registering new engineering disciplines in the state.

It was "a very difficult decision," Stewart said, but had to be made because it appears he may be elected vice chairman of the state board and there would be "a conflict of time."

He said he wouldn't bow completely out of local politics, but "I'll be a sideli-

Stewart is an assistant manager with White Lumber Co. in San Francisco. He has resided in Daly City the past 30 years and was on the city Planning Commission for eight years before being elected to the council in 1970. He was an unsuccessful candidate for county supervisor in 1976.

D.C. Center Update OKd

Bids on remodeling of the Daly City Community Service Center were authorized Monday night by the City Council following approval of the remodeling plan.

City Associate Planner Fred W. DeJarlais told the council that the job would cost $28,000 and that with earlier improvements in the 50-year-old structure, the city still would have $35,000 left of a $75,000 federal Housing and Community Development Agency allocation. Bids will be opened in mid-January.

Bringing the structure up to building code standards and improving reception and meeting facilities are the main objectives while the city looks for a place for a new center, DeJarlais explained.

In other business the council:

- Accepted deeds from the county for land for a new Bayshore Park;

- Approved a new lease agreement for the Daly City jail by the county Sheriff's Office similar to the old one, but noted that seven federally-funded city jobs would be lost. Assistant City Manager Ray Lettinger said efforts are being made to relocate these workers in other city jobs;

- Referred to staff and the Police Department a complaint from the Crocker Neighborhood Association, Inc. about juvenile carousing at Lincoln Park at night.

700 Percent Increase in Treatment Costs Slated

South San Francisco city councilmen will be asked tonight to approve a 700 percent, $2,200 a month increase in sludge removal charges at its sewage treatment plant.

The increase is being proposed by Tillo Products Co. Tillo has a contract with the cities of South San Francisco and San Bruno to turn sewage sludge — the solid waste by-product of sewage treatment — into fertilizer.

Gives 'Awards'

About 175 were on hand Thursday as the Greater Daly City Chamber of Commerce's annual Christmas luncheon turned into a traditional "roast" of politicians and public figures.

Santa Claus, as portrayed by Chamber member Al Belotz, handed out a number of gifts which he thought would be useful.

A member of the Daly City Police Dept. accepted two tickets for ailing Police Chief David Hansen to next year's Hookers Ball.

Belotz explained that he didn't want Hansen to be outdone by a certain San Francisco police chief who generated some comment through his attendance at this year's event.

The police department also was presented with an "Award of Condemnation" for handing out too many commendations to police officers this year.

Councilmen Tony Giammona, Bill Schumacher, and Victor Kyriakis and Mayor Albert Teglia were given musical instruments and asked to create a little group harmony, for once.

Council hopefuls Jane Powell and Jim Tucker were offered cushions bearing the inscription of "council seat."

Congressman Leo J. Ryan received a large standardized complaint form to hand out to his constituents, with the space

Pals for Palsy's Candy Cane Express is making its annual run through San Mateo, Burlingame and Daly City, with Mrs. Santa and her elves dropping off toys made or otherwise provided by members for the children at the El Portal Day School, including the Day Care Center there, as well as Del Norte in San Bruno and the Day Care Center in Daly City. Mrs. Santa (Mrs. Stanley Stark) and her elves, Mesdames Jack Gansburg, Raymond Flaig

Few See Cow Palace Bullfight

The bloodless bullfight held at the Cow Palace in Daly City Saturday afternoon before 3,000 spectators did not feature inhumane treatment of the bulls, Richard Ward, executive director of the Peninsula Humane Society, said today.

"There was no incident Saturday that will lead to any further action being taken at this time," Ward said.

The American Humane Association, based in Colorado, had filed a complaint with the San Mateo County District Attorney's Office, hoping to have the bullfight stopped.

District Attorney Keith Sorenson, however, could not stop the bloodless bullfight, because Section 597M of the state Penal Code condones the sport if it is held in conjunction with a religious event.

The Cow Palace event was sponsored by the Sacramento-based Diocese of the St. Elizabeth National Church, a Portuguese congregation. According to Monsignor Val Fagundes, it is part of the annual Feast of Our Lady of Fatima celebration.

In a bloodless bullfight, Toreros do not torment the animals, said Monsignor Fagundes.

"It is just to show the command intelligent men can have over the wild beast. In my opinion, it is a lot better than the circus, where lions and tigers are whipped. In this sport, all the bullfighter has to do is defend himself with a cape," he said.

Ward said 10 representatives of the Humane Society attended Saturday's matches, including six state Humane Society officers, two veterinarians and two cameramen, one with a 35 mm and the other with a movie camera.

The executive director said the Humane Society will begin in January to look for a sponsor for state legislation to outlaw bullfighting.

A conference co-sponsored by the Peninsula Humane Society and the United States Humane Society, which will be Jan. 20-21 at the Airport Marina Hotel in Burlingame, will discuss such legislation, Ward added.

Youth

worker, Mrs. Mallory spends each school day working with her caseload of 30 Serramonte students.

Ten students attend a class she teaches each day and the other 20 youths report to her often on their progress in school.

Most of her Serramonte students have had at least one brush with the law. They have been picked up by police for burglary, assault, petty theft, shoplifting or jaywalking.

After a court appearance and sometimes a brief assignment to Hillcrest Juvenile Hall, they are recommended for Mrs. Mallory's program.

In addition to misdemeanors, her cases include instances of extreme truancy, low grades and fighting and defiance in the classroom or on campus.

Mrs. Mallory said participation in the program must be approved by both the parent and the student. The fact that the student has violated the law can enable the courts to require regular attendance as a probation condition.

In the class she teaches, which is identified simply as independent study, Mrs. Mallory tries to get students to think about personal values; often for the first time in their lives.

"Youngsters are confused about what kind of behavior is approved by society," she said. "They are not clear about how to go about making choices."

"They don't think about what they do on a conscious level," she added.

Mrs. Mallory gives the students exercises "to help them understand themselves and others better." Students are graded on written assignments, as well as group exercises.

The probation officer keeps daily attendance and progress records on her students and gets further information from the attendance office.

Her caseload includes more males than females, but she said the number of girls in trouble equals the number of teenage boys.

Mrs. Mallory contacts parents at least once a week and also sends them "good news" or not so good news notes.

She believes the presence of a probation officer has increased daily classroom attendance, improved grades and lessened fighting among the students involved in the program.

ENDS TRAINING

Marine Private William M. Cook, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell H. Cook, 255 Wyandotte, Daly City, has completed recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego.

During the 11-week training cycle, he learned the basics of battlefield survival. He was introduced to the typical daily routine that he will experience during his enlistment and studied the personal and professional standards traditionally exhibited by Marines.

He joined the Marine Corps in July 1977.

Field Grows in County School Race

Don E. Halverson is a candidate for the position of County Superintendent of Schools. He is the fourth educator to seek election to the post in the June primary.

The 52-year-old Halverson, a resident of Redwood City, is assistant county superintendent of schools, in charge of educational services.

Halverson said today that he has the support of his boss, Dr. J. Russell Kent, who is retiring from the $43,000 a year position Jan. 2, 1979, when his term expires. Many district superintendents in the county, he said, also had urged him to run for the position.

County programs now under Halverson's jurisdiction include curriculum, bilingual education, guidance program planning, program evaluation, staff in-service, education resource center, library, audio visual, and outdoor education.

Halverson said this county has the best outdoor education program in the state and that he supports the acquisition of the outdoor education site near Loma Mar, but he said he would not endorse spending $4 million for facilities on the site.

Halverson was a teacher for 10 years at the elementary, junior and senior high school, community college and university levels. He was an elementary and high school principal, and he was assistant superintendent of elementary, high school and junior college districts.

Halverson has been a management consultant to the Intergovernmental Management Development Institute, Center of Management Development and state Department of Education.

He is a member of the Advisory Committee to the School of Education, San Francisco State University; executive secretary of the joint Committee on School Boards and County School Superintendents in determining roles and responsibilities of school boards; and chairman of accreditation committees for the Western Association of Schools and Colleges.

Others who have announced their intention to seek the position are Anthony Giammona, Daly City councilman; Ernest Ribera, assistant superintendent of instruction for the Jefferson Union High School District; and William Jennings, superintendent of the San Bruno Park School District.

sewage treatment plant serves both that city and San Bruno.

A rather glum council was told at a recent study session that it has no workable alternatives for now. Even with the $2,300 a month increase, Tillo is still the cheapest alternative, the council learned.

Tillo officials said they are having trouble making ends meet at the current monthly fee of $300. To get out of the red, Tillo is asking the city to pay $2,500 monthly, plus an additional $2,000 per month for an interim program.

According to Tillo, the California drought has caused an overabundance of soil conditioners to flood the market, forcing fertilizer prices down from $5.50 per cubic yard to $4.50 a yard.

Tillo combines the sludge it removes with coffee grounds and rice hulls to produce the consumer lawn fertilizer.

Mayor Emanuel Damonte commented, "That fellow (the owner of Tillo Products) has us over a barrel; he has an ace in the hole."

At present, both Tillo and the two cities are in the middle of a suit brought against them by Deputy Attorney General William Chamberlain of San Francisco. The suit charges that the three parties are in violation of a 1975 clean-up and abatement order and asks Superior Court Judge Walter Capaccioli to demand that certain clean-up measures be taken.

Capaccioli, in turn, has appointed a referee to look into the matter. Council will discuss the rate increase Wednesday night, beginning at 7:30, in the auditorium of the West Orange Avenue library.

Also Friday afternoon, the council approved the wording of an argument to appear in the voters' pamphlet regarding city acquisition of the Value Giant building in the Buri Buri Shopping Center. The building, the city plans, will be converted into a police station and offices for the Park and Recreation and Fire Department administrations.

The current police station then would house the building, planning, engineering and fire prevention departments.

The choice, however, will be up to the citizens of South San Francisco, who will be asked on March 7 to approve a tax override of up to five cents per $100 of assessed valuation until 1997-98.

the proposed contract be discussed again at the council's Jan. 9 meeting.

That wasn't soon enough for Teglia, who urged action be taken within the next few days. With or without an agreement with Daly City, Loran noted, "The garbage bill for Pacificans is going to increase."

Teachers Will Go to Binding Arbitration

Teachers belonging to the Laguna Salada Educational Association have decided to go to binding arbitration, after receiving a letter from the Laguna Salada Union School District.

The dispute involves the way the district arrived at a 3.4 percent pay boost for teachers this fall.

Teachers expected a much larger pay hike from the reopener clause of their contract, which states that 60 percent of any new income resulting from action of the 1977 California Legislature is to be used to increase salaries.

Dr. Lucille Foster, a member of the district's negotiating team, contends that it is not possible, according to the contract, to reopen salary negotiations. She said all monies available were considered when the board voted for the 3.4 percent raise.

The letter which LSEA received Tuesday was the district's response to a grievance filed by LSEA. The letter states that the district doesn't believe any settlement to the grievances is possible. It defends the method by which the district arrived at the 3.4 percent pay boost.

Anne Shea, president of LSEA, said the association has 10 working days within which to decide whether to appeal the dispute to binding arbitration. Since today is the last school day before Christmas vacation, the teachers have until Jan. 11 to decide.

The probation officer keeps close tabs on her charges through teachers, school personnel and other students.

If she needs to see a student, she arranges to meet the pupil at lunch or asks that a teacher excuse the student from class briefly.

"I try to lessen class disruptions as much as I can," she said.

Laurie Cahill, Serramonte's vice-principal in charge of guidance, has high praise for Mrs. Mallory's work.

"It's a very positive thing," Mrs. Cahill said. She's dealing with academic as well as attendance problems. She's no pushover or patsy for the kids."

Mrs. Mallory said her attitude towards the youth is "reality oriented."

"I believe that a person should be responsible for his behavior and I don't think a high school student is too young to start being responsible," she concluded.

Jeff Board Bogs Down on Union Question

A Daly City woman argued long and hard to keep her job as a part-time kitchen helper with the Jefferson Elementary School District Wednesday night and succeeded in getting the Board of Trustees to table the matter for more investigation.

Ann Parker was due to be terminated because she hadn't joined the California State Employees Association by the Dec. 8 deadline set by CSEA in a letter to her, but she told the board she hadn't received the letter.

Because her salary is her to "pay up or get out." "The union doesn't negotiate for me or my salary. I get no benefits from the union," she charged, adding "I feel it's unfair."

Trustee Beverly Forrester interjected that salaries are negotiated by the district with CSEA and that federally-funded employees like Mrs. Parker are paid on those negotiated scales.

That didn't answer the question of why Mrs. Parker wasn't notified of the union election and the new requirements.

June Bianchini, another part-time worker who has been with the district for 31 years, backed Mrs. Parker, saying she hadn't been notified until this fall either, but had paid the $1.50 initiation fee to CSEA "because it makes them happy."

But she said she, too, saw no benefits to CSEA membership for her and saw no reason why her $4.30 monthly dues should be so high, since only $1 stays in the district and the rest goes to the state organization.

On Trustee Dorothy Adams' motion, the recorded testimony will be transcribed and sent to CSEA with a request that it reconsider Mrs. Parker's case.

The board also decided against terminating two other employees, because their religious beliefs prohibited them from joining a union.

In other business the board:

- Approved a five percent pay boost for 10 top management and supervisory personnel, at a cost of $8,500 for the year but less than the 8.2 percent the personnel board recommended.

- Heard a report from Mrs. Winnie Kum, coordinator of special services, on a comprehensive plan for special education being formulated by a consortium of all 23 San Mateo County school districts and which, if funded under new federal laws, could bring in $878,000 in federal money, or about double the yearly reimbursements for special education now. There also would be some major reorganization of teaching the various kinds of handicapped, Mrs. Kum said.

- Heard Wallace Victory, a partner in the Lynch, Victory and Young telecommunications firm, offer a proposal to modernize the district's telephone system, with updated equipment to replace the old switchboard and producing savings of perhaps $500 a month on the phone bill. But the motion to go ahead with it died on a 2-2 vote, with Mrs. Forrester and Trustee David Parker wanting more study.

- Approved a request for state aid to offset a loss in local assessed valuation on taxable property, a move said to be worth maybe $135,000 to the district.

- Stalled a proposal for an enclosure for the bocce ball court at Colma Intermediate School on a 2-2 vote, with Mrs. Adams saying she believes it would contribute to vandalism problems by giving perpetrators a place to hide. Mrs. Forrester also voted no. Board Chairman Alvin Schwarzbach was absent and will be faced with the issue Dec. 28.

IN EXERCISE
Navy Interior Communications Electrician Third Class William A. Blatt, whose wife Elizabeth is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Laird, 209 Olive St., Daly City, is participating in exercise "Readex 1-78" off the Southern California coast.

He is serving as a crewmember aboard the ammunition ship USS Kilauea, homeported in Concord. He is one of more than 9,000 Navy men taking part in the 10-day exercise, which includes 24 ships and 75 aircraft. The exercise is part of a continuing training program for Fleet units to develop tactics and provide essential training of combat ready Naval forces. "Readex 1-78" is designed to test and improve combat readiness in all aspects of modern Naval tactics, including air, surface and antisubmarine warfare.

Blatt joined the Navy in January 1973.

SHIP AWARD

Navy Seaman Apprentice Mark A. Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Robinson, 374 Acacia St., Daly City, has helped his ship win a competitive award.

He is serving as a crewmember aboard the guided missile destroyer USS Richard E. Byrd, homeported in Norfolk, Va. His ship was awarded the Navy's Battle Efficiency Award in recognition of its accomplishments and competitive scores obtained while assigned as a unit of the NATO Atlantic Standing Naval Force. He joined the Navy in April 1976.

RE-SUPPLY

Air Force Reserve Master Sgt. Ralph G. North, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. North, 439 Willits St., Daly City, is a member of a unit helping re-supply U. S. Navy personnel and civilians conducting scientific operations in Antarctica.

North, a flight engineering technician, is among members of C-141 Starlifter aircrews from the 708th Military Airlift Squadron, Travis AFB, who deployed to New Zealand to fly resupply missions from Christchurch to McMurdo Sound on the frozen continent.

The annual joint Air Force-Navy logistical operation, dubbed "Deep Freeze," involves numerous 2,000-mile overwater shuttle runs between Christchurch and McMurdo in some of the world's worst flying weather and terminates in ice landings in summer temperatures ranging from 20 degrees above zero to 40 below.

The sergeant's unit at Travis is part of the Military Airlift Command, which provides global airlift for U. S. military forces.

North attended Jefferson High School and College of San Mateo.

Heidi Dupre, a member of the Planning Commission, picked up her nomination papers last Thursday.

'Greetings' to Governor Brown

John Ward, chairman of the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors, urged members of the San Bruno Chamber of Commerce last week to send Christmas cards to Gov. Jerry Brown.

The cards, Ward said, should wish the California governor a merry Christmas. But, more importantly, the holiday greetings should tell the governor that the New Year would be "happier if the state government would adopt meaningful property tax reform that he could approve," Ward said.

It has reached the point, Ward said, "Where we need some help from Sacramento."

Urging San Brunans not to "lose sight of the fact that you are a community in the county," Ward said the Board of Supervisors is "trying to bring the role of county government much closer to the communities we serve."

He admitted the relationship between the county government and the communities it serves "has been distant over the years." But, Ward indicated, "I have worked hard in my three years on the board to combat the lack of sensitivity between northern and southern San Mateo County."

A former teacher at Crestmoor High School in San Bruno, Ward said the responsibility of county government has grown as the complexities have grown. As an example, he cited the Pre-Arrestment Detention Facility in Daly City, which primarily serves Daly City, San Bruno, South San Francisco and Pacifica. It is in that facility where bookings are made and suspects detained until a hearing can be held in the Northern District Municipal Court in South San Francisco.

"This commitment began with support of a grant. But when the money runs out, who will pick up the costs?" he asked. And then Ward answered himself.

"Come January of 1978, the county will assume the complete operation of the facility, although we have been picking up the costs since July. In January, the sheriff will take over the general operation, at a cost of $260,000 a year.

"In a situation like this, we have to indicate to the taxpayers (throughout the county) that these are needed services," Ward said.

The answer today, the chairman explained, "is not to expand that level of government. Today people are asking for fewer services, but at the same time recognizing that we have to continue to operate."

Because of this, Ward said the county next year will institute "zero-based" budgeting, the first county in California to try the method. In zero-based budgeting, each department starts with nothing, and must justify each program it wants to see implemented or continued.

"This," Ward said, "will require a disruption in the status quo at various levels of county government. It will mean a total review, in four years, of every program in San Mateo County.

"And, along with these, we will be exploring alternatives in terms of how well we are meeting the needs of the community."

Negotiations Set to Resume

Long-delayed salary negotiations are about to get off dead-center between the Jefferson Elementary School District and the Jefferson Classroom Teachers Association, where there has been no 1977-78 or even 1976-77 contract worked out.

The JESD Board of Trustees decided after a brief public hearing on its initial proposal Wednesday night to proceed with the negotiations, stalled by disputes while the JCTA asserted itself as the district teachers' sole bargaining agent.

The district's offer was made public several days ago and a new fringe benefit issue may have cropped up Wednesday when, over the warnings of JCTA spokeswoman Evelyn Sherry, the board decided to look into the possibility of dropping its district-paid California Dental Service insurance and taking up another plan.

Superintendent Peter M. Hansen said he would contact the JCTA negotiator today to set up meetings. The Jefferson board also directed Assistant Superintendent for Business John Trompeter to contact the JCTA to negotiate the changeover in dental plans.

Trompeter offered an assessment of his chances of getting JCTA agreement to the change before the Jan. 1 expiration date of the current dental coverage. He is to report back at the Dec. 28 board meeting, and noted, "We'll need a decision by then, rain or shine."

"If you take action, you'll force us to take action," Mrs. Sherry warned the trustees about the dental plans. "It's better to get into negotiations over our salaries, which are pinching us right now. He can't promise you rates won't go up."

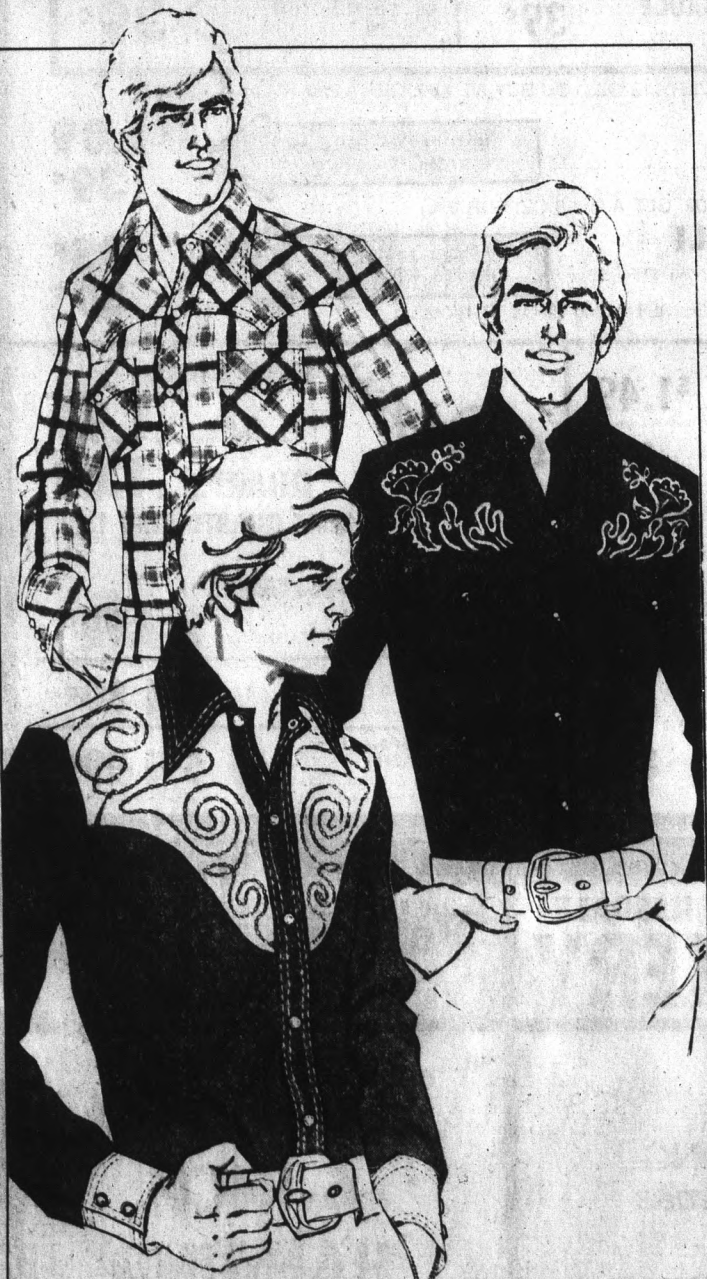

"He" is Bob Schoenherr, assistant vice president of Keenan and Associates of Torrance, who presented the board with a proposal by his school district insurance brokerage firm which he said could save the Jefferson district perhaps $11,000 for the year over the current cost of the CDS plan.

It also promises more reimbursement of the patient and faster payment to the dentist, Schoenherr said.

Teen Suicide Climbs

By JANET PARKER

The pain of adolescence today is causing suicide among teen-agers to reach epidemic proportions, local experts are saying.

Family break-ups, broken relationships, sibling rivalry — the whole gamut of adolescent social problems — are driving devastated teen-agers to end their lives.

A 16-year-old youth pulled a gun out of a paper bag in his Half Moon Bay classroom last year and shot himself in the head.

A 15-year-old Daly City girl who had run away from home after a family argument last year pulled a gun out of her jacket and shot herself while riding in the back seat of a Daly City police car.

A 14-year-old Redwood City youth was found dead earlier this year in his home, an apparent suicide victim.

Many other suicide attempts among the young go unrecorded when victims are treated by private physicians or not at all.

The holidays, according to the county's Suicide Prevention Center executive director, Charlotte Ross, are an especially troubling time for young persons who may be on the brink of turning to suicide to escape their loneliness, their grief or their emotional turmoil.

It's a time of year that's romanticized and glamorized, and reality often doesn't meet everyone's expectations, she related. Depression during the holidays in San Mateo County runs rampant.

For teen-agers in the midst of a family in conflict, it can be just as difficult as for the adults involved, she said.

"We do know that adolescence is not an easy time," Ms. Ross said. "While it's a time of growth, it can be painful growth."

Twelve teen-age suicides were recorded in San Mateo County in 1976. Ten years ago, there were only three.

In the United States from 1965 to 1973, the suicide rate for the entire population increased 8 percent while teen-age suicide escalated 71 percent. That trend has been apparent throughout the world, she said.

Conservative estimates, she said, are that there are nine suicide attempts for every completed suicide in the adult population while there are 40 attempts for every successful teen-age suicide.

They haven't had enough time to learn to cope yet, Ms. Ross said. It's much easier for a teen-ager under stress to simply give up.

But the warning signs issued by suicidal teens often go unnoticed or ignored because persons of all ages still find it difficult to talk about a subject that has long been considered taboo, she explained.

The 16-year-old youth's death shocked his classmates, his teacher and the community. But suicide prevention workers learned in counseling later that the youth had dropped many hints in the days prior to his death. He had asked a fellow student and a teacher if "you have to be crazy to shoot yourself." And, on the morning of his suicide, he told a friend he was "going to heaven very soon." The messages were not understood by those around him, Ms. Ross said.

"Family, friends and teachers consistently reported that they did not know what to do in response," she said.

Today, Madreen Benton is a volunteer in the suicide center helping others deal with the crisis of suicide. Three years ago, she was dealing with the crisis herself. Back then, she would have been afraid to even mention the word "suicide," she said. Like many others, she believed at the time that to do so would "put ideas" in a depressed person's head.

Loss, she said, is the most common reason anyone contemplates suicide. For her 17-year-old son Bobby it was the death of his girlfriend.

She was killed in an auto accident in which Bobby was at the wheel. He was charged with felony manslaughter. Five weeks later, Bobby got a gun and shot himself to death.

Mrs. Benton said she realizes now there are messages that indicate someone is eyeing death to escape the pain. At first, after the accident, Bobby said he didn't want to live anymore. But after one week he stopped talking that way and his parents assumed he was recovering.

But friends thought he means he was going to run away when he said he was "going away." The list she found in his room of things to get done she believed was simply a reminder before he left on a scheduled trip to be with his sister — one he never took.

A friend even saw Bobby at home trying to assemble a gun belonging to his father, a Redwood City police officer just, hours before he died. Bobby promised he wouldn't use the gun. That's when he went home and shot himself.

"I realize now when a person is suicidal like this, you don't leave them alone," Mrs. Benton said. She and her husband, she said, were too wrapped up in their own grief to recognize their son's turmoil. She didn't realize what her son was feeling, she said, until it was too late.

No one could take Bobby seriously, Ms. Ross said. It was like a conspiracy against him. Those close to him loved him too much to accept the possibility of suicide, she said.

Ms. Ross said she believes most people don't make it through their teens without thinking at least in some small degree about suicide. It's a time of great turmoil and it's not uncommon for a teen-ager to think, "I can't go on," she said.

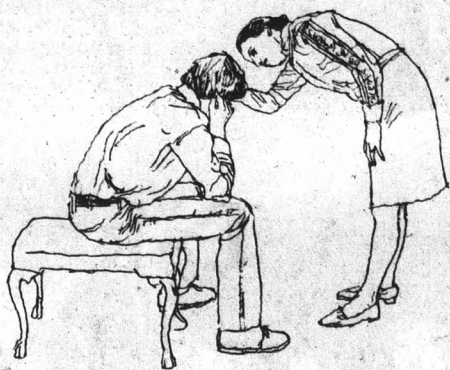

Some adults react with resentment when confronted by a teen-ager contemplating suicide, she said. They believe the teens are suppose to be the happiest years and they resent a young person defying that opportunity for happiness.

A year ago, the Suicide Prevention Center put together a grant-funded teen-age suicide educational program including workshops in the high schools and colleges, brochures and a film detailing the plight of Bobby Benton. The program has gained national recognition.

"People who never before would have thought of asking a kid if he were depressed and thinking of suicide are calling me and saying, 'My God, I asked him. Now what do I do,'" Ms. Ross said.

The first time a student mentioned suicide to one educator, Sarah Boyd, she was shocked and confused. Mrs. Boyd, a Menlo Atherton High School counselor, said she talked to one educator about a half dozen students last year who were thinking of attempting or who had attempted suicide.

Many students had transferred that year from Ravenswood High School and the adjustment was difficult for them. Other students were under pressure to get good grades so they could qualify for Stanford or the University of California at Berkeley, she added.

In nearly every case, those teen-agers said they couldn't talk over their problem with their parents, she related. In fact, a survey conducted in several local high schools showed that an overwhelming number of students would confide in their friends first if they were considering taking their own life.

Mary Wilson (not her real name) was 15 the first time she attempted suicide. She had just moved in with her mother — with whom she didn't get along — and a stepfather she resented. She chose to lock both of them out of her life completely.

"In the process of hurting them, I started to lose contact with a lot of feelings I really should have been able to feel," she recalled.

She only thought about her suicide a day or two, she explained.

"Living had become very painful for me," she said. "I finally decided I couldn't stand the pain any longer." One night after an argument with her mother, she swallowed two bottles of aspirin, thinking they would kill her. Instead, she was critically ill for days.

"I was feeling very ambivalent," she said. "I still wanted to live and I still wanted to die." She was angry at herself for being unsuccessful but also angry at herself for disappointing her real father.

The psychiatrist her parents found her provided little support and she retreated into a lonely world. She tried suicide again in her 20s. It wasn't until a Suicide Prevention Center volunteer won her confidence that her suicidal desires waned, she said. She now is employed with the center.

"I don't think an adolescent can really grasp the finality of the whole thing — of ending a life," she said. "I knew I wanted to die but somehow it wasn't all quite clear."

"It's such a fragile period in anyone's life," said Marilyn, a switchboard volunteer. "There are things a more mature person could deal with."

"That's the tragic thing — that such a young life could be hurting so badly," she said.

The most important thing to realize is that a teen-ager's problems may be as significant and troublesome to a teen-ager as any problem can be to an adult, Mrs. Benton said.

"It may very well be silly to us, but it's not to them," she said. "They don't know that it's going to be all right."

A suicidal teen doesn't have to be a poor student with few friends, she said. Her son was popular, athletic and a good Christian.

It's important, she said, to listen to a teen-ager — to tell him you can help him work out a problem. Ask him, she said, if he is hurting badly enough to consider suicide. If he says "yes," get help.

"For God's sake, whatever you do, don't say, 'That's stupid,'" she added.

"With Bobby, we just patted him on the head and said it would be okay," she related. "We didn't realize he couldn't see that."

"He didn't have the wisdom of the years we have to realize time will heal," she said.

How to Cut Holiday Phone Costs Told

"Planning ahead for your holiday calls can save you money," according to local Pacific Telephone Manager Gwen Wert. "Knowing when lower rates apply — and planning your calls accordingly — can make a difference in the cost of your holiday telephone calls," she said.

Holiday discount rates are applied on long distance calls within California and to other states on Christmas and New Year's Day. Since those two holidays this year fall on Sunday — a day when long distance rates are already normally reduced — holiday rates will be applied to calls on Monday, Dec. 26 and Monday, Jan. 2.

"Saturday is a good time to plan your long distance calls because the most economical rates are offered. For calls in California and throughout the states, the lowest rates are all day Saturday and until 5 p.m. on Sunday," Wert explained.

"My best advice is that customers calling long distance or to other countries use the front pages of the telephone directory to choose the best time, and day of the week, to place their calls," Wert said. "Of course, one sure way to save is to direct dial your calls. Because you dial the number yourself without operator assistance, direct-dialed calls are the most economical," she said.

"The important thing for customers to know is that when you place a call can make a difference in the price. Customers can control the cost of their calls by checking the time of day and the day of the week when it is most economical to call," Wert said.

NAVY RECRUIT

Navy Seaman Recruit Dan M. Khorge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Khorge, 16 Christopher Court, Daly City, has completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center, San Diego.

Included in his studies were seamanship, close-order drill, Naval history and first aid. A 1977 graduate of Serramonte High School, he joined the Navy in September, 1977.

Misnamed SSF Boys' Club Serves the Family

ARTS AND CRAFTS

Diana Borrego works on a drawing as part of the arts and crafts activities offered at the South San Francisco Boys' Club.

Serves Many Interests

By BILL HURSCHMANN
The South San Francisco Boys' Club is a misnomer. Although located in South San Francisco its service area is much greater than that; it isn't only for boys, and it's not really for a club.

Today's boys' clubs combine all the functions and services and opportunities that people have grown accustomed to over the years — and more. It is reaching into areas far beyond its original scope in order to help solidify the "family" as an entity in today's society.

South San Francisco's facility at 201 W. Orange Ave. was dedicated 15 years ago. And it carried on the traditional boys' club concept for a dozen or so years until the times began to change.

Three years ago marked the beginning of the broadening of the boys' club scope. Girls were allowed to join the club, although it wasn't until last year that the club's by-laws officially were changed.

"With the addition of girls there's been no change in our program," says Jim Callahan, 38-year-old executive director of the South San Francisco Boys' Club, which boasts membership from throughout Northern San Mateo County. "Frankly, to a lot of people's surprise, boys and girls belong together. They get along very well together."

Perhaps the only physical change the club had to make was a partitioning of part of the locker room/shower room area to accommodate both sexes.

"Most of our programs are easily participated in by both boys and girls," adds Callahan, "although we do have some programs, such as intramural basketball, for boys only. Some boys like to participate in all-boy activities, as do some girls. We recognize that need."

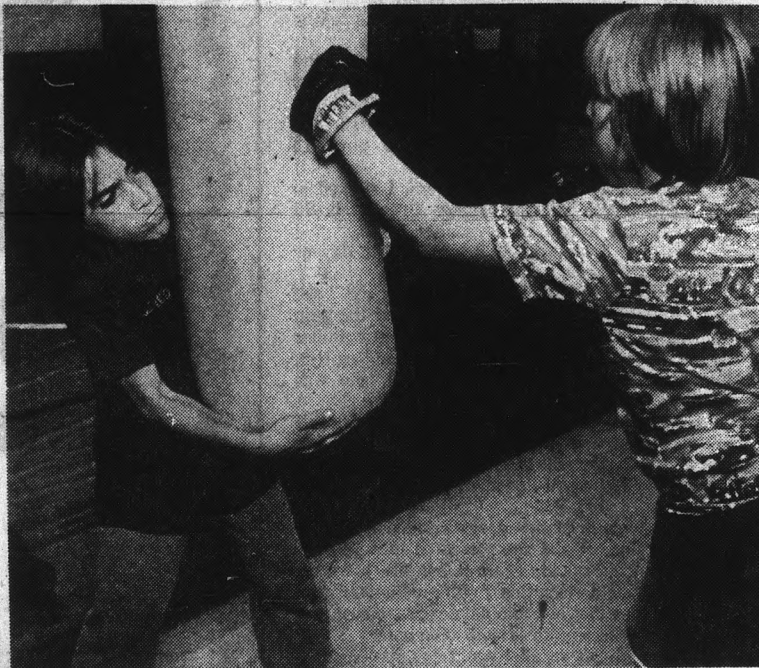

Then last year, perhaps the most significant of the changing structure of the South San Francisco Boys' Club occurred: The Tri-Cities Alternatives Project.

Callahan, who also serves as project director for Tri-Cities Alternatives, explains: "We saw a need in the community for a counseling program and first approached the Family Service Agency for them to work out of our facility. They couldn't afford to, so we wrote to the Criminal Justice Council of San Mateo County telling them of our intent to request funds for such a counseling project."

That letter, he explains, was forwarded to the county Probation Department, which asked the club if it would be willing to join with other agencies — cities and school districts alike — to form a network of diversion programs for the North County. The answer was yes, and Tri-Cities was formed during the summer of 1976.

The diversion programs, which also are located in other spots in the county, including Daly City and Pacifica, do exactly that: They divert juveniles away from the criminal justice system.

"In the past, programs were developed to retain and lock up, rather than to

COMING IN 1978

Paramedics Steve McCredlin, left, and Bill Pahl, right, look over a new paramedic plan for emergency medical services to begin on January or February at three "base" hospitals in San Mateo County. One of the hospitals is Mary's Help in Daly City, whose emergency services coordinator, Sister Nancy, second from left, and Dr. Larry Livingston, second from right, will work with the paramedics. The other hospitals are Sequoia in Redwood City and Mills in San Mateo.

Paramedic Plan Comes To Hospitals

By NANCY STANCILL
Personnel of three San Mateo County hospitals are excited and a little anxious about beginning a new program in 1978.

Sequoia Hospital in Redwood City, Mills Hospital in San Mateo and Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City were chosen by a countywide committee as the county's three base hospitals for the paramedic medical program.

The hospitals will work closely with 12 Medevac and South San Francisco paramedic units, providing education and monitoring the ambulance units' work in the field.

The County Emergency Medical Services Office soon will install $150,000 of radio and telemetry or heart monitoring equipment at the three hospitals.

Within the next few weeks the equipment will be available for hospital personnel to use for training. In late January or February the program officially will go into operation.

Jim Powers, county emergency medical services coordinator, said the county is trying to make sure that all the general hospitals participate in aiding the paramedics.

There were some bruised feelings when Mary's Help Hospital was chosen in November by the county committee over nearby Kaiser Hospital in South San Francisco.

Powers emphasized that designating base hospitals will not affect which hospital a patient selects. The base hospitals instead will be a location for the equipment in the field instruction.

The county chose the three hospitals on the basis of their plans and qualifications for implementing the program. Some of the qualifications included full-time emergency physicians, special certification for nurses and certain standards for treating patients in the field.

Mary's Help contracted with California Emergency Physicians to provide six full-time physicians for staffing emergency services, according to John Camioni, associate hospital director.

Camioni said the hospital made the staffing arrangements specifically to be designated a base hospital.

Dr. Roger Taylor, the hospital's new director of emergency services, said Mary's Help currently is seeing "three-quarters of the emergency cases in the North County."

Taylor said the hospital averages 2,400 emergency cases a month, ranging from "severe auto accidents to cardiacs to toothaches."

The physician said the paramedics will receive updated training in most hospital areas, in addition to emergency room work.

But the new part of the program will be working with the paramedics over the radio, directing their actions with critically ill patients before they are brought to the hospital.

"It allows an extension of doctors and nurses," he said. "The patient will get care earlier and in cardiac cases especially, it really makes a difference."

Sister Nancy, Mary's Help's emergency services coordinator, said the program will keep the nurses on their toes by requiring mobile intensive care specialized training.

Robert Barclay, administrator of patient care and support services at Mills Hospital in San Mateo, agrees.

"I think the major effect of the program will be to keep our people highly trained and updated," he said. "They will be required to do a substantial amount of educational work."

Barclay said the emergency nurses are "a little frightened" at the prospect of beginning to direct the paramedics over the radio, once the nurses are certified.

"But in general, the staff is very enthusiastic," Barclay added.

"It puts our hospital in a position to provide another benefit to the community," the administrator said of the base hospital designation. "It's also good for our image."

Dr. Jerry Weisberg, medical director of Sequoia Hospital's emergency department, said the Redwood City facility is looking forward to the new program.

"I think it is a positive step," he said. "It sort of injects a necessary vitality and structure into services, keeping the staff involved."

Weisberg said Sequoia has had a full-time emergency staff since 1972, longer than any other hospital in the county. In the past, emergency rooms have been staffed with physicians on call who have private practices.

He is looking forward to working with the paramedics in the field, since it is an area that many personnel will learn for the first time.

"The staff has a lot of excitement and a little anxiety," he said. "We want to become personally familiar with the paramedics and responsive to their needs."

Happy Holiday everyone! Holidays have always been a time for the enjoyment of sumptuous dinners and feasts and this year the members of the Daly City Senior Citizens are having a delightful time sampling some of the finest in traditional holiday dishes.

Today the club is holding its annual holiday banquet in the Lincoln Park Club house and members are excitedly anticipating the turkey and stuffing and pumpkin pie that the season calls for.

THIS WILL be the second Christmas dinner enjoyed by the Daly City club. The first, about a week ago, was at a party sponsored by the Loyal Order of the Moose, Lodge 26 in Colma.

For the fourth year the members of the lodge and their wives cooked and served a traditional Christmas dinner to senior residents in Daly City. On the first occasion 25 senior citizens were entertained, the following year 30 guests enjoyed the hospitality of the lodge members and last year 90 persons gathered in the lodge hall for the party. This year the guest list included 185 names!

Cocktails, a Christmas sing-a-long and a musical program preceded the dinner.

IN ADDITION to the parties, the Senior Club has done its bit to spread Christmas cheer to others. Last week Mrs. Florence Mooney and Mrs. Louise Buttle played Santa's helpers during a visit to the Villa Sanitarium. Club members have worked all year to make lap robes, bed slippers and shoulder covers and as the ladies were able to deliver 12 lap robes, 23 pairs of bed slippers and several shoulder wraps to the residents of the sanitarium.

Next major event on the club's schedule will be the installation of new officers Jan. 4. Herman Alcalde will be assuming the post of president, Mrs. Virgel Davis will be first vice president and Mrs. Isabel Ryan the second vice president. Mrs. Buttle will begin her fourth year as secretary and Mrs. Marian Laskey is to be the new treasurer.

THE HOLY ANGELS Church Parish choir will present a concelebrated High Mass in Latin at midnight on Christmas eve.

The Christmas program will begin at 11:15 p.m. when carols will be sung in the sanctuary. At 11:35 p.m. a Grand Entrance Processional will begin with all the parish organizations and the congregation at large invited to take part in the Grand Procession.

MRS. MARGARET KERNS will be at the organ, Nick Moore will be the trumpeter and Mrs. Pat Campbell will direct the choir.

The public is being invited to attend the service in the church, at 107 San Pedro Road in Colma.

BEGINNING at 10:30 p.m. on Christmas eve members and friends of the congregation of Lakeside Presbyterian Church will gather to sing Christmas carols in preparation for the candlelight worship service which will begin at 11 p.m.

LAST CALL for reservations aboard the Fifty Plus Club's bus headed to Lake Tahoe for New Year's Eve.

Members of the club and their friends will leave early in the morning on New Year's Eve and junket to the Nevada Lodge on the North Shore of the lake where they will be among those guests welcoming in the New Year. The bus will return everyone to the Bay Area Jan. 2.

For information about reservations contact Mrs. Elizabeth Funderburg.

MEMBERS OF THE Daly City Host Lions will help make many children's Christmas a lot happier. This year the club was able to donate $250 to the Operation Santa Claus and $300 to the Lions' Eye Foundation with an additional holiday gift of $125 to the Daly City Library for the purchase of large print books for the visually handicapped.

MRS. VIRGINIA TIERNEY, president of the Daly City Friends of the Library, and local library trustees Michael Cooney, Mrs. Sarah Kelechava and Mrs. Gertrude Kendree represented the local library system at the California Library Association's annual convention held in San Francisco at the Hilton Hotel.

Mrs. Tierney, who is chairman of the By-Laws committee of the California Association of Library Trustees, attended the convention in a three-fold capacity. First as a trustee, then as a committee chairman as well as a member of the Friends of the Daly City Library.

Among those who attended the gathering of the Friends of California Libraries which was held in conjunction with the Library Association convention, were Mrs. Verna Teglia, Mrs. Frances Lee, Mrs. Betty Martinez and Mrs. Kendree.

Writers Find Jesus' Beauty

Christmas 1977.

In a grand old volume called "Masterpieces of Religious Verse" (Harper, $9.95), one finds a few lines that were penned by Eleanor B. Stock for her "Prayer of the Quest." They are addressed to Jesus of Nazareth.

"Take is on the Quest of Beauty,
Poet, Seer of Gallilee,
Make all our dreams creative
Through their fellowship with Thee."

AFTER A lifetime of searching through the legends attached to the personality of Jesus, the learned Dr.

Samuel Chandler

Malachi Martin wrote, "Jesus of Nazareth after all had a great beauty: Winsome Beauty — Beauty of Character — Beauty of Merciful gesture, the consoling word, the enlightening solution — Beauty, above all, of a promised eternal homecoming."

To find such beauty an unknown poet suggested that Jesus of Nazareth gazed at:

The sun upon the hills,
The sweeping shadows, and the winding lane.
Morning he loved, with dewdrops on the flowers;
Evening, with sunset and soft, warm April rain.
Friends he found in lepers stumbling to him,
Love in those who hate, grace in sinners' eyes.
Dawn he saw with all earth's newborn glory,
Twilight and darkness, and hope in human sighs.
Youth was his, and springtime, and music in the trees;
Life was his, and sunshine, and murmuring of the bees;
Joy in healing broken hearts; manhood's noble strife;
All the wonder and the beauty of a sacred human life.
He walked the common lanes, the city streets he trod,
And in his heart was beauty — the Beauty born of God."

THE PURSUIT of such beauty, according to the philosopher O.C. Tanner, is the road to reality showing harmony in the structure of the earth and the creatures who populate it.

But, Dr. Tanner wrote, to find harmony in nature was for Jesus of Nazareth a mere step leading to an even greater beauty: beauty of character. Dr. Tanner calls it the "ultimate achievement of man," leading to what William Ellery Channing called his formula for "a great symphony of life."

"To live content with small means;
To seek elegance rather than luxury, and refinement rather than fashion;
To be worthy, not respectable, and wealthy, not rich;
To study hard, think quietly, talk gently, act frankly;
To listen to stars and birds, to babes and sages, with open heart;
To bear all cheerfully, do all bravely, await occasions, hurry never.
In a word, to let the spiritual, unbidden and unconscious grow up through the common.
This is to be my symphony."

TO OBTAIN such beauty, Hazel Rawson Cades listed the following resolves:

"To forget ourselves and think of others;
To learn to love the people around us and do things to make them happy;
Never to cause others to feel small or inferior;
To give generously, to judge leniently;
To believe in others and think no evil of them;
Not to be warped and shriveled by envy, greed, jealousy, petty gossip;
To be sincere — quick to compliment, never to flatter;
To be tolerant and patient and sweet-tempered;
To be honest with ourselves and with others;
To seek out our weaknesses and fears and overcome them.
To face the facts; but never to let them beat us;
To believe in the goodness of life;
To avoid all but constructive worry;
To think in terms of success and plan for the future with enthusiasm and confidence;
To be happy, to smile, to leave behind us the contagion of laughter;
To protect health and to seek better health and hygiene habits;
To remember that beauty and goodness are inseparable;
To realize that love is the secret of loveliness."

CHRISTMAS 1977 is a good time to resolve to embark on a quest for the kind of beauty that marked the life of the poet seer of Nazareth.

The Regent

On Dec. 7, Serramonte held its annual athletic fall awards. The evening started at 7:30 in the cafeteria with dessert. The awards were given to the outstanding players in both girls and boys sports. The girls sports consisted of volleyball and tennis. The boys sports were football, C and D basketball and cross country.

THE GIRLS volleyball gave out two awards, Most Valuable Player and Most Improved Player. Varsity's Most Valuable Player is Eliza Horta and the Most Improved Player is Shelly Morris. Two of the players made All-League. Flo Cassidy is on first string and Eliza Horta is on second string.

Junior varsity's Most Valuable Player is Leslie McNeil and the Most Improved Player is Linda Young. Leslie made All-League second string.

In girls tennis the Most Valuable Player is Shirley Ong and the Most Improved Player is Genny Hom.

Varsity Football Most Valuable Player is Russ Pinomaki. The best offense player is Mike Kuchac and the best defense player is Lou Tinsley. The players who made All-League are: Al Hughes, Kuchac, Steve Nelson, Pinomaki and Tinsley.

Frosh/Soph football Most Valuable Player and Best Offensive Player is Joe Nobles. The best defense player is Tony Weatherfield.

The Most Valuable Player in C Basketball is Antone Williams. The Most Valuable Player in D basketball is Knarens McDonald.

THE MOST Valuable Player in Varsity Cross Country is Ronnie Campos. The Most Valuable Player in Frosh/Soph is Nino Hernandez.

At the end of January there will be a special publication of the Serramonte Crown (school newspaper). This edition of the school paper will feature news, sports and articles of general interest. The paper is under the direction of teacher John Harley and the editor is Lindsay Chu.

THE FEDERAL government has given to the Jefferson Union High School District a federal grant to introduce Filipino bilingual-bicultural education. Jefferson High and Serramonte High were chosen as the sites for implementation. Serramonte has hired Raul Pangillan as the teacher, Rudy Dumandan as the teacher aide, Maria Sanchez as a community aide and Jenny Flores as a liaison person. All of these people can speak Tagalog.

How to Be a Chinese Cook

A variety of Chinese cooking classes is offered in Daly City and Pacifica adult schools. Most are taught by Chinese instructors featuring authentic Chinese recipes; one is by a non-Chinese with adaptations of Chinese style recipes for American taste and American desire for simplicity.

The classes are sufficiently different that students sometimes enroll with two or even all three teachers and learn different approaches from each. Shirley Dong and Marcelle Chan offer beginning, intermediate and advanced classes. At Terra Nova Adult School, Ms. Dong has a beginning class on Wednesday nights in the new term starting the first week of the new year.

At Serramonte Adult School, Mrs. Chan has a beginning class on Mondays and an advanced class on Wednesday nights. Their intermediate courses will be given during the next term.

Practical Chinese cooking, with Robert Wanderer at Serramonte on Tuesday nights, presents recipes that can be used in Chinese dinners or as part of "ordinary" dinners.

emphasizing ease of preparation and avoiding more exotic special ingredients.

Other cooking classes starting the week of Jan. 3-9:

The Everyday Gourmet, combining flavor with simplicity and low cost, Thursday nights at Westmoor Adult School with Wanderer.

Filipino Cooking, Thursday nights at Serramonte, with Mrs. Reyes.

Latin-American Cooking, Monday nights at Terra Nova, with Mrs. Ysselstein.

Ruggiero Cake-Cutting Runs in Fete at Thornton Brisbane

Edna M. Ruggiero has become the fifth candidate to take out nominating papers for the Brisbane City Council race. Three seats are up for election in March.

Miss Ruggiero, 40, is the assistant manager of McDonald's restaurant in Daly City. She has resided at 10 Sierra Point in Brisbane for 10 months and is a native of San Francisco.

Miss Ruggiero joins Councilman Don Bradshaw; Planning Commissioner Heidi Dupre, former Mayor and Councilman Art Montenegro and businessman Joseph Kersha as contenders for the three seats.

TRAINING

Navy Seaman Frank J. Camargo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Camargo, 350 Horizon, Pacifica, has completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center, San Diego.

Included in his studies were seamanship, close-order drill, Naval history and first aid. He joined the Navy in September 1977.

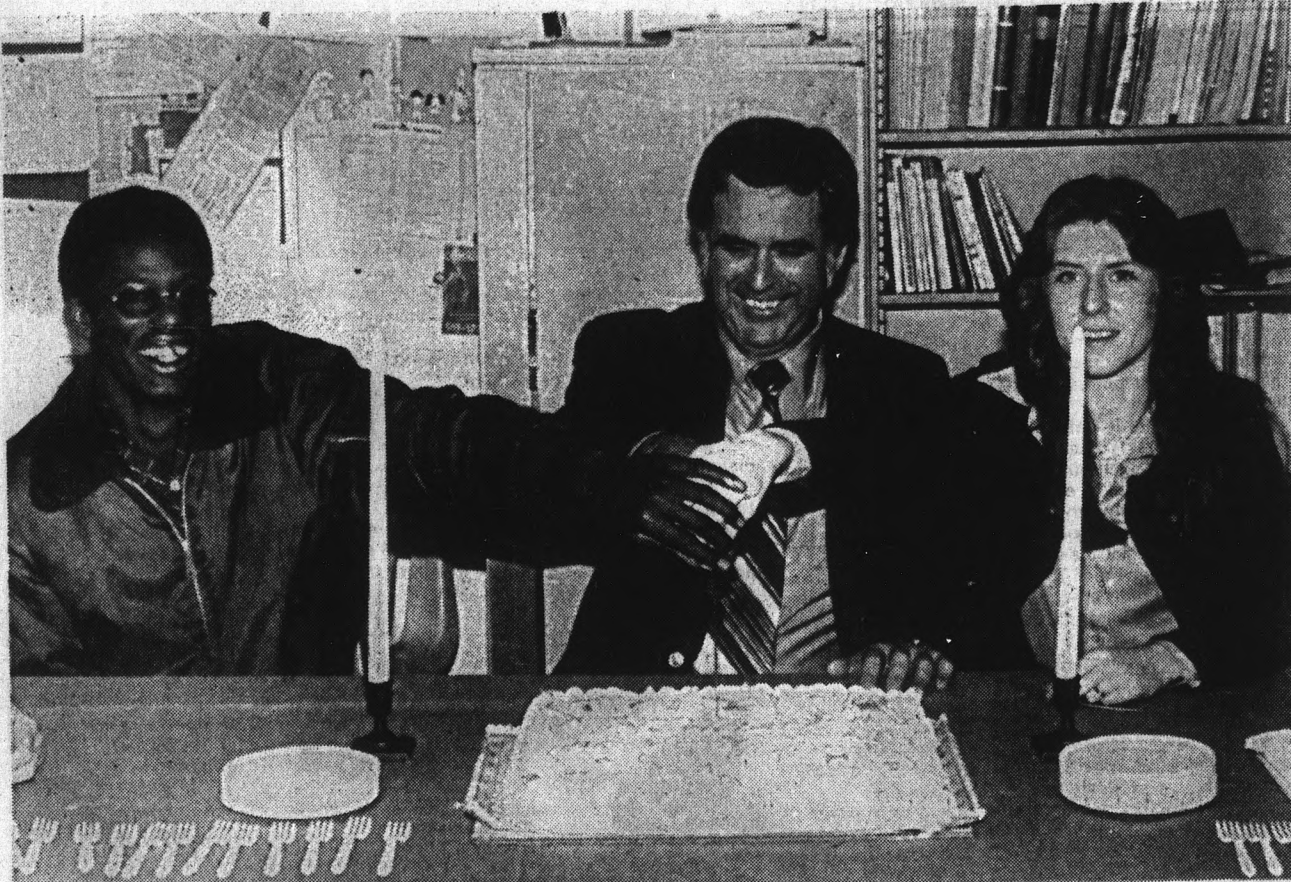

When asked by the mayor if they felt their efforts were paying off, all students agreed that they were, and they were proud of their involvement in the community. They also expressed the hope that their involvement in community affairs would help create a more positive image of Thornton High and its students.

They then addressed questions to the mayor on after-school recreation and jobs, both of which the students are concerned with. The cake ceremony was highlighted by the mayor sharing the cutting honors with Mitchell and Pittman.

Thornton Principal Tom Mohr endorsed the student's participation in the Daly City Clean Community Committee's anti-litter efforts as a way in which the youth can play an important role in community activities and stated that their involvement was strictly a voluntary one. Mohr said he felt that Thornton's students have established, in their own unique way, their need to relate to the community in a positive manner.

Edward D. Lyons, Daly City administrative assistant, and Patricia Tatarian, publicity chairman for the Clean Community Committee, also were present.

THORNTON OBSERVANCE

President Sherry Mitchell, right, at a ceremony last week honoring Thornton High School volunteers for a pick-up project in the city's Clean Community Committee drive to control litter. Tegli had come to the school to thank the student council and volunteers for their efforts.

NELL NORTON

Good morning, good cooks.

Here we are heading down the home stretch with the gifts purchased, if not wrapped, and things pretty well under control. We hope.

If you haven't already planned your dessert for Christmas Day, this Cherry Noggin Pie suits the occasion very nicely.

CHERRY NOGGIN PIE

- 2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
- 1/3 cup rum or water
- 2 cups milk
- 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
- 2/3 cup sugar
- 4 egg yolks, well beaten
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup whipping cream, whipped
- 1 cup chopped maraschino cherries (about 40 cherries)
- 10" baked pastry shell
- Whole maraschino cherries for garnish

Sprinkle two envelopes unflavored gelatin over one-third cup water or rum, to soften. Combine two cups milk, fourth teaspoon nutmeg and two-thirds cup sugar and cook over medium heat, stirring frequently, until the boiling point is reached. Blend a small amount of hot milk mixture into egg yolks, return to milk mixture and cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture coats a silver spoon.

Stir in the fourth teaspoon salt and softened gelatin. Stir until gelatin is completely dissolved. Cool. Fold in whipped cream and chopped cherries. Turn into baked pie shell and chill until firm. Garnish with cherries and additional whipped cream, if you wish. This is a large, rich pie and serves eight nicely and could be stretched to serve 10.

What to do with the four egg whites that remain from the Cherry Noggin Pie? Worry not. Whip up a batch of Forgotten Meringues and you have an additional treat for Christmas. As the name indicates, you just put these cookies in the oven overnight and forget them.

FORGOTTEN MERINGUES

- 4 egg whites
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar
- 1 1/2 cups sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 large package chocolate bits

Heat the oven to 400 degrees. (Note: Remove racks from oven before you heat.) Beat the four egg whites until foamy and as add the fourth teaspoon each salt and cream of tartar. Beat until stiff and add the one and one-half cups sugar, one tablespoon at a time, beating as you add. The whites will be very stiff. Fold in the one teaspoon vanilla and chocolate bits.

Drop by heaping teaspoonsful onto heavy brown paper. (Paper bags, cut open, work fine.) Lay on oven racks. Place cookies in oven, close door, turn off oven. IMPORTANT - DON'T PEEK. Let stand overnight. Makes about six dozen cookies.

Planner Leaves Daly City

By NANCY STANCILL

A departing planner has criticized the City of Daly City for retaining a part-time city attorney who also engages in private practice in the city.

John Walker, Daly City's planner for nine years, said there's a "serious potential for conflict of interest" in the position that City Attorney Albert Polonsky holds with the city.

Walker, an outspoken and controversial city employee for some time, said he prefers "not to answer the question" of whether he has been pressured to leave his position.

He said he will leave the city Dec. 21 to accept a better position as planning director of Pico Rivera, a city in the Los Angeles metropolitan area.

"I'm not leaving in either a blaze of glory or a cloud of disgrace," the 54-year-old city planner said, "but it is no secret that I do not hold the confidence of the present City Council. I'm not the golden boy."

City Manager David Rowe said Walker has not been asked to leave. However, City Council members have indicated that Walker's frequent criticism of city policies has been a sore point with city officials.

"I would wish John well," Rowe said. "He's a good planner."

Walker, however, has not been as complimentary to city officials, particularly Polonsky.

"The most significant shortcoming of the city administration is the lack of a full-time city attorney who is beholden only to the city," Walker said.

"I am constrained to say that the city attorney's role is not a satisfactory one," he continued. "The city attorney has not always given satisfactory service."

Walker declines to specify instances where Polonsky may have had a conflict of interest, but stressed that the potential is ever present.

He explained that the city attorney be asked to give a ruling on whether an Environmental Impact Report or zoning change is required in planning matters.

Since no form of disclosure is required of the city attorney, no one can be sure that the city official is not acting also on behalf of a developer retaining his private services, Walker asserted.

However, Polonsky has denied that he has represented any developers within the city while acting as city attorney.

The city attorney said "at times" he has represented someone who "four or five years down the road" has had city dealings.

He added that he has turned down much legal business that might affect the city, particularly a volume of cases that deal with suits against city police officers.

Polonsky said he has had few dealings with the planning functions of the city.

As for EIR documents, he said, "I don't even see the damn things until they're done."

Walker criticized the city attorney's insistence that the city's Housing Rehabilitation Program await compliance with Marks-Foran Act regulations, when the city was developing a federally funded, rather than Marks-Foran state-supported program.

"Housing rehabilitation could have been under way for some time," Walker said.

Walker's criticism on rehabilitation echoed recent charges by the Original Daly City Protective Association that the fledgling housing fix-up program has been put off by Polonsky's lagging legal work.

Workshop

A workshop to examine why psychosomatic diseases occur and how to treat them will be in Knuth Hall at San Francisco State University Jan. 13 and 14. The workshop is open to the public and is of special interest to such licensed professionals as physicians, nurses, psychologists, social workers and nursing home administrators. It is sponsored by San Francisco State University's Division of Continuing Education.

"I don't know the justification for the housing rehabilitation delay, but the city attorney has not enthusiastically pursued it," the city planner said.

Walker believes the city should follow the lead of San Mateo in hiring a full-time legal professional.

But Walker said Daly City has been traditional in hiring a part-time city attorney who's been a "political insider." He noted that Polonsky was a councilman before he took the city attorney's job 11 years ago.

Polonsky's predecessor, attorney Paul Hupf, also was a councilman before he became city attorney.

"It's too vital an issue for me to go away without saying something," said Walker about his criticism of the city attorney's role.

"I guess I've always spoken freely and frankly," said the city planner, who's often been in hot water.

Walker has clashed with council members who oppose apartment projects. He believes that Daly City should offer "a variety of lifestyles."

Because of his outspokenness on planning matters, Walker believes that he deliberately was placed out of the planning mainstream with the creation of a Department of Community Development several years ago.

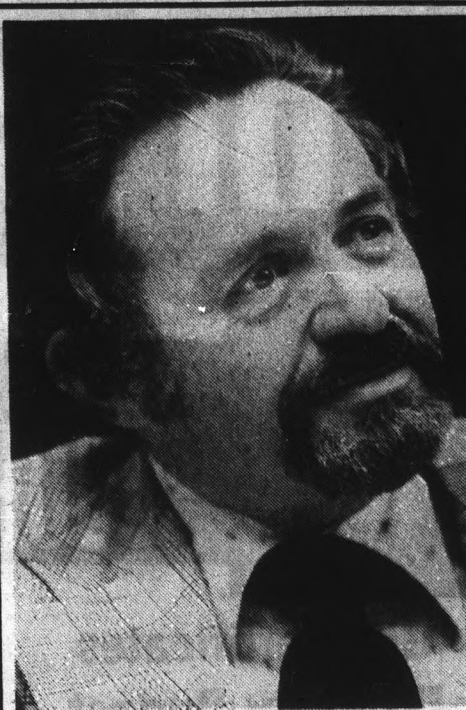

He was made administrator of the zoning ordinance, while associate planner Tom Miller was directed to deal with current development proposals.

"My knowledge was not taken advantage of," Walker said.

"I believe I served the purpose of planning very well, but since the Department of Community Development was created, I haven't been a part of planning," he said.

Walker was the city's first planner, hired as an arm of the City Manager's Office.

Rowe said he has not determined whether Walker will be replaced. He said a decision will await the outcome of the city's analysis of consolidation of the departments of community development and public works.

ALBERT POLONSKY

Daly City's city attorney favors full-time position.

City Attorney, What'll It Be — Full or Partly?

Does Daly City need a full-time city attorney? Both City Manager David Rowe and City Attorney Albert Polonsky believe it does, though not for reasons of possible conflicts of interest as charged by departing City Planner John Walker.

"I can't recall any situation in which the city attorney has represented any developer that has come before City Council," Rowe said.

But the city manager also pointed out, "There's too much work for a part-time city attorney."

Rowe said he has discussed the need for a full-time professional informally with council members, but has not recommended action.

Does a part-time city attorney hold up work on city programs?

"Every person is operating with more work than can be done," said Rowe. "I am holding up the city attorney now on his work with the city code."

However, Rowe added that legal work has increased in the past year, with "a lot of contracts, legal research with rehabilitation, redevelopment, general plan and other projects."

Polonsky, who has been city attorney since December 1966, is paid $27,216 a year for his part-time work. Rowe said the city attorney probably spends closer to full time than half time on city business.

Rowe estimated that it would cost the city a minimum of $43,000 to hire an experienced full-time city attorney, since the salary level generally is comparable to that of the city manager. Rowe is paid $43,000.

The city manager said San Mateo and South San Francisco are cities in San Mateo County which have gone to full-time legal counsel. Redwood City also has a full-time city attorney.

Polonsky agrees with Rowe.

"There is sufficient business for a full-time city attorney. Within the last year or two, the volume of business has increased greatly," he said.

Polonsky said he is not seeking a full-time job with the city, although he indicated he would consider it if the City Council decides to go in that direction.

"I love city attorney's work," he said.

GRADUATED

An official at Sheppard AFB, Tex., has announced the graduation of Airman Charles J. Cabral Jr. from the U.S. Air Force's aircraft maintenance specialist course conducted by the Air Training Command.

Airman Cabral, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Cabral, 1836 Victoria Way, Pacifica, is now trained to maintain, repair and service aircraft currently in use by the Air Force, and will serve at Clark AB, Philippines. Completion of the course earned the individual credits towards an associate in applied science degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

The airman is a 1976 graduate of Terra Nova High School.

MAIL CLERK

Sgt. Michael W. Gaskins, whose wife, Sook, and mother, Mrs. Betty Castro, reside at 886 Imperial Ave., Pacifica, recently was assigned as a mail clerk with the 16th Postal Department at the Presidio of San Francisco. Sgt. Gaskins entered the Army in April 1969. He received his high school diploma through the General Educational Development program.

RIFLEMAN

Private Max M. Lamport, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph K. Lamport, 4978 Cabrillo Highway, Pacifica, recently was assigned as a rifleman with the 4th Infantry in Kornwestheim, Germany. He entered the Army last June.

Gift Certificates Fit Every Budget

If you're stumped for a Christmas gift idea for the boss or that favorite uncle, here's a timely suggestion: Gift certificates from PHIL LEHR'S STEAKERY, on the lower level of the San Francisco Hilton Tower. It's the one gift that is never exchanged because everyone loves dinner in this beautiful steak house. Tailored to every budget — buy them in any amount....BILL MONRO will serve complimentary champagne to all dinner patrons Christmas Day at the elegant new ROSEBUD'S ENGLISH PUB in San Francisco. The one-price holiday menu, served from 1 to 10 p.m., will feature three entrees. Early reservations are advised....It would be hard to imagine a more perfect setting for Christmas dining than LEHR'S GREENHOUSE in San Francisco. Special holiday brunch (with eggnog, Ramos Fizz or Bloody Mary included) will be on tap 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Traditional Christmas dinners follow from 4 to 11:30 p.m. ROMANO'S Italian and Seafood restaurant in Rockaway Beach offers Scampi as one of several specialties of the house. Served with spaghetti, tossed green salad, and French bread. ENRICO ROMANO'S Mahi Mahi, with pineapple slice, sauteed almonds, shredded coconut, French fries, vegetables, and French bread is also a stand-out. Open from 4 p.m. daily.

DOUBLE-BARRELED

Headlining in the Galleon Room of The Fisherman restaurant, Burlingame, on New Year's Eve will be the exciting Tommy Gunn and The Bullets with their famed "Tribute to Elvis" plus regular dance music. A second orchestra will perform in the scenic upstairs ball room.

Vince's Caters to Hearty Appetites

The casual informality of VINCE'S Italian and Seafood restaurant, with seating in comfortable booths, at tables, and the long counter, makes dress a "come as you are" affair. Vince's crew will be on holiday vacation Dec. 24, 25 and 26. Reservations are really easy at SCOTTY CAMPBELL'S in Redwood City. With the automatic reservation system, you can reserve a table at any hour of the day or night, seven days a week. After 4:30 p.m., lovely HELEN TRAINER will personally take your reservations. Celebrities are numbered among the countless diners who call Scotty Campbell's one of their favorite Peninsula dining spots. Channel 5 Newscaster Dave McElhatton and his wife enjoyed their anniversary dinner here last week. Traditional holiday home-made fare will be presented at the HOLIDAY INN, South San Francisco, on Christmas Day. Christmas dinners will have a choice of three special entrees. Dinner will include a choice of soup or salad, and a homemade dessert. A big New Year's Eve bash is also planned. More on this later. If it's your first visit to LA PINATA in downtown Burlingame, Chorizo Con Huevos (three scrambled eggs with Mexican sausage) served with refried beans, rice, salad, and corn tortillas, will make you return again and again.

Basketball Information 'In' Basket Emptied

By LE PACINI
Correspondent

It's come time to empty my "in" basket of all the odds and ends of basketball information I've been accumulating. So for what any of it's worth, herewith some of my collection:

Aside from Tommy Heinsohn, Larry Brown and Jerry West, the latter two of whom have coached for only one full season, Al Attles has the best lifetime coaching record of any active NBA coach.

RICK BARRY is shooting 52 per cent at home, 40 per cent on the road.

San Francisco State fans may not remember that three Gators have been drafted in San Francisco Warriors history. Joe Gallo was a 10th selection in 1967, while two Staters were drafted in '69 — Dick Chapman (10th) and Joe Callahan (12th).

Milwaukee's Swen Nater was the top rebounder against the Warriors last season, with an average of 15.8 per game.

WIN A bar bet by asking who the all-time best Warrior field goal percentage man is, career. Actually, it is two men, coming into this season, and both unlikely choices — Butch Beard and Clifford Ray, with 52.1. A close third is the also unlikely Charles Dudley at 51.1. The obvious choices of Wilt Chamberlain and Jerry Lucas are fourth and fifth, with 50.5 and 50.1, respectively.

And who's the fourth-best Warrior of all-time in assists? Al Attles. Naturally, Guy Rodgers is tops, followed by Jeff Mullins (who I think is their all-time best "pure" shooter) and Barry.

Through 1976-77 the Warriors' all-time winning percentage is .509. Their home record since moving west is .593. Their record at the Oakland Coliseum is .663.

WHEN THE Warriors acquired forward E. C. Coleman from New Orleans, they got not only an All-Pro defensive man, but eliminated a tough enemy, because E. C. did better against the Warriors last year than he did against most of the rest of the NBA. Against the Warriors he shot a percentage of 47.5 from the field, 46.2 against the rest of the league; was 80 per cent on free throws, 73.2 against the NBA; average nine rebounds against GS, seven against the NBA; was 10.5 points per game against the Warriors, 8.6 otherwise.

Did you realize that Nate Thurmond now stands a comfortable all-time third in NBA career rebounds, behind only Chamberlain and Bill Russell?

And that Oscar Robertson may have the most vulnerable of all NBA career records, being more than 2,600 better in total assists than his nearest opponent, Lenny Wilkins?

WAS THERE ever a better NBA draft for one team than Boston's bonanza of 1956, when they nabbed Heinsohn (first choice) Russell (can you believe he was only number 27) and K. C. Jones (third)?

While we're still on Boston, do you realize that it was Bob Cousy who started the Players Association, spent his own money to keep it going — and now doesn't get a pension from that grateful group.

Last year the Warriors were seventh best in the NBA in turnovers per game (19.8), and seventh-best at causing turnovers (21.7). Leaders in the respective categories were Cleveland (16.5) and Denver (23.7). Worst were Denver (they turned over 24.5) and Boston (they caused just 16.7).

TOP MAN IN the NBA last year in combined rebounds, assists and points was Jabbar. Barry was best for the Warriors, though only 13th in the league.

California colleges have produced the most players on current NBA rosters. The state has 40 products out of 286 players, from 12 different colleges, which is also a league high. Closest to California is North Carolina — with 18. UCLA currently has 13 on NBA rosters, Indiana nine.

Tallest team in the NBA last year was Atlanta, whose players averaged 6 feet, 6.57 inches. The Warriors were 13th tallest, at 6 feet, 4.74 inches. Shortest was

Sports And Recreation

Denver, 6 feet, 4 inches. The league average was 6 feet, 6.51 inches.

HEAVIEST TEAM in the NBA was Detroit, at 211.1 pounds per man. The Warriors stood next to last in heft only to Seattle, 200.8 to 200.5. The league average was 205.2.

The average NBA career spans 3 3/4 seasons. Some 48-minute projections from last season: Most rebounds in the NBA, Nater, 21.1 (Moses Malone was second, with 20.6); most points, Pete Maravich (36.1); most shots attempted, Maravich (32.5).

Know what NBA team made the biggest improvement in games won the year after winning the NBA championship? It's the Warriors, who won 11 more games in '76-77 than they had won in their title year. They are one of only 12 champs to improve upon their title season the next year.

THE NEW YORK Nets drew the most technical fouls last year (71) and paid out the most in fines ($6,075). The Warriors were 15th, with 34 technicals. Coaches drew the most technicals (345), followed by guards (205), forwards (184) and centers (123). The leader in technicals was Nets Coach Kevin Loughery (42), who far outclassed Hubie Brown of Atlanta (26). The Warriors' Alvin Attles was way down the list, with only three. Among players, the leaders were Eric Money, Earl Monroe and Sam Lacey, with 14, followed by Barry, Maurice Lucas and Jim Chones, 13.

Loughery led everybody in most times ejected from a game, with six. Hubie Brown was runner-up, four.

When NBA teams played on three or four successive nights last year, or in four games in five nights, five games in six nights or six games in seven nights, they compiled a winning percentage of just .470. Los Angeles was the best in that category with a .767, followed by Chicago (.606), Cleveland (.596) and the Warriors, Washington and Denver (.581).

LAST YEAR, 49 players participated in all 82 games. Four of them (Jojo White, Randy Smith, Tom Burleson and Dick Snyder) have streaks of three or more seasons. San Antonio had the most "iron men," with six. White has the best streak, with 444, followed by Smith, 431. However, White was second to Elvin Hayes in total minutes played, but Maravich averaged the most minutes per game, 41.7. Hayes has been in the top 10 in this category for six of the past seven years.

New Orleans produced the most 48-minute performers, as they had players who went all the way 16 times. Maravich did it 10 times, to be the NBA leader. Slyck Watts played the most minutes in one game, going 58 in a double overtime.

Last season was the worst ever in the NBA for injuries, as 181 players missed at least one game through injury or illness. Milwaukee and the Nets were the most injury prone, with 12 casualties each. The Warriors were among the most fortunate teams, with seven, but Houston was luckiest with only four.

BOSTON had the best record last year in wins for low final margin (six points or less) games, with a .700. The Warriors were only 16th, with .462.

Tom Owens and Johnny Neumann share the NBA record for having played with most clubs — nine.

There are 12 former pro players now coaching in the NBA — Attles, Jerry West, Bob Hopkins, Bob Leonard, Don Nelson, Larry Brown, Elgin Baylor, Doug Moe, Willis Reed, Loughery, Heinsohn and Gene Shue.

Capuchino High guard Jimmy Kruidenier launched himself on a flying drive to the basket during El Camino tournament play Friday night, but Westmoor's Tony Limutau (21) and Keith Harband (23) launched themselves to stop him. Kruidenier turned in midair to dish off the pass. Cap won 82-54.

Westmoor Finishes Fourth in El Camino Cage Tournament

By JOHN MURPHY

When the subject of Capuchino High basketball comes up, one automatically thinks of versatile, sharpshooting guards. Cap's had plenty of them over the years — Matt Krietch, Frank Denucci, Jason Malinowski and, of course, Mike Mitchell.

So for people who weren't in attendance Saturday night at the championship game of the El Camino Tournament, it probably comes as somewhat of a surprise to learn that Cap center Dave Lopp was named the tourney's Most Valuable Player.

But for those who did witness Cap's impressive 42-38 win over St. Ignatius of San Francisco, the announcement was not that much of a shock.

Lopp dominated St. Ignatius' star 6-7 center Tony Zanze. The 6-6 Lopp went five-for-seven from the field and eight-for-eight from the line to outscore Zanze 18-12.

Cap's standout senior pivotman noticeably intimidated his taller opponent, forcing him into several costly traveling violations in crucial situations. As one observer put it, "Lopp made Zanze look like a freshman."

Lopp's brilliance was badly needed, as Cap's standout guard Mitchell suffered through a sub-par evening. It wasn't all Mitchell's fault, though. The 6-2 scoring whiz was hounded (and sometimes pounded) by aggressive SI defenders all evening long.

Cap led 21-20 after a see-saw first half and then upped the margin to three points early in the third period on a Mitchell field goal. SI then hit two quick buckets to take the lead, 24-23. But then Lopp took over.

Mustang forward Tom Fell put Cap in front with a basket and then Lopp scored the "Tangs" next 10 points to keep his team ahead.

Cap might have won going away, had it not been for the long-range marksmanship of Wildcat gunner Paul Smoot, a San Mateo product. Smoot's clutch outside shooting kept SI close as the "Cats" trailed 38-34 with 1:50 to go.

Zanze was fouled with 1:38 left and sank two free throws to shave Cap's lead to two.

Capuchino then went into a delay, and with Mitchell and fellow guard Jim Kruidenier handling the ball flawlessly, was able to stall away more than a minute. SI, frantically attempting to regain possession, finally fouled Fell with 25 seconds left.

Fell calmly buried both attempts to put Cap ahead by four once again. SI hurried downcourt and cut the lead to two, but Fell made another pair of charities with 0:04 left to wrap things up.

Mitchell finished with 13 points, two steals and two assists. Fell added 10 points and led Cap in rebounds with six. Smoot topped the Wildcats with 14 points. Cap's tourney championship was its first at El Camino since 1973, when it defeated SI. The Wildcats had captured the tourney crown last season.

In other tournament games played Saturday, Hillsdale topped Westmoor 51-47 for third place, Tamalpais annexed the consolation championship 72-57 over Mills and South City grabbed seventh place with an overtime 63-57 victory over rival El Camino.

Trojans Blister ARC

By FRED BAER

APTOS — The opponent may have been a large division college with an 8-1 record, but Skyline made it look easy in the second half for a 92-69 triumph over American River for the championship of the Cabrillo College Classic Saturday night.

"This was our strongest win, our strongest blowout," said Skyline coach Lyle Newcomer, whose top-ranked Division II club now has the best record, 10-0, and longest win streak, 19 games, among the state's 100 community college basketball teams.

Canada College settled for fourth place at Cabrillo, dropping the finale with hot-shooting Moorpark, 91-64. Moorpark (8-2) whose only losses are to Santa Barbara (by six) and to Skyline (by four), led Canada only 37-32 at the half.

Kevin Barbour was the only Colt to hit double figures (12). Skyline guard Ted Scott wiped the tournament scoring mark out in the finals with a 38-point effort to finish with 78 and also take tourney MVP honors.

Skyline, down early 24-16 as American River penetrated for lay-ups and hit from the outside, reversed things in a hurry.

The 5-11 Scott and forward Jerry McNeil each got four points during a 12-point Trojan streak that made the count 28-24 with 6:15 left in the half.

Skyline made it 40-32 at the half, then put it away after the intermission.

Scott and 6-6 frosh center Brad Levesque took care of all of Trojan scoring for the first 13 minutes of that second period, tallying 28 points between them in that span to double the Skyline margin to 16. Scott alone had 15 of those points and scored 24 of his 38 in the second half.

With guard Jason Malinowski leading the fast break with 13 assists, Westmoor grad Scott got inside for lay-ups and swished baskets from the corner.

Scott's corner popping finally forced the Beavers to switch to a man-to-man defense with seven minutes left. That didn't slow down the Trojans a bit, however, as they increased the margin to 75-44 with 5:28 to go. The reserves came in with 3:30 to go and three straight baskets by Tom Helmers made it a 25-point gap.

Joining Scott on the all-tournament team was 6-4 Trojan forward Reggie Love, American River forward Mike O'Reilly, De Anza forward Howard Fine and Williams of Moorpark.

Love, a 17-year-old freshman from Serramonte, grabbed 10 rebounds in the finale to extend his tourney lead in that category.

Panthers Top Fals for Title

By TIM MENICUTCH

Dave Kohn sank 12 of 13 field goals and scored 26 points to lead Burlingame High's basketball team to the Live Oak Lion's Club tournament championship with a 67-60 win over Crestmoor Saturday night at Sequoia High.

Burlingame utilized the inside shot to build a 20-17 lead midway through the second period. But the hot shooting of Roy Raymond and Mark Alger brought Crestmoor back to within three points at halftime.

Burlingame held its advantage through the third quarter before Kohn went to work in the fourth to put the Panthers up by as many as 10 points.

Crestmoor made a mild late bid, but Burlingame used slow-down tactics to secure the victory.

Burlingame upped its non-league record to 6-2 and Crestmoor dropped to 6-3.

In the battle for third place, 27 points by Sequoia's Travis Jammer were wasted as Washington of San Francisco downed the Cherokees 70-64.

Sequoia (2-6) was never completely out of the contest, but couldn't get close enough to seriously challenge for the lead and trailed most of the game.

Jefferson (2-2) edged Menlo-Atherton (4-6) 46-44 for the consolation championship.

M-A led by four points with 5:00 left in the game, but hit a cold spell, scoring just six fourth quarter points.

Jefferson took advantage of M-A's inability to find the basket and, behind the hot shooting of Darryl Jackson, earned a comeback-behind victory.

Jackson led all scorers with 18 points and M-A's Bob Melvin had 12 points.

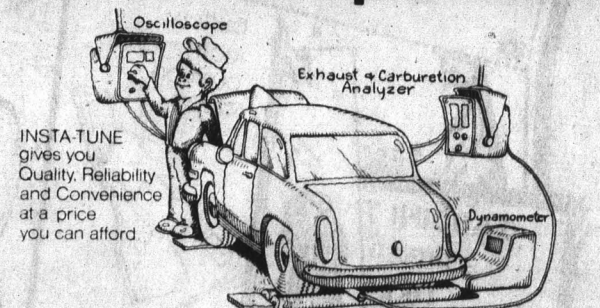

Kohn was named the tournament's most valuable player. All-Tourney selections included: Kurt Kumet, Burlingame; Roy Raymond, Crestmoor;

Jackson, Jefferson; George Harding, Menlo and Jammer, Sequoia.

Final Scores:
Crestmoor..... 10 19 14 17-49
Burlingame..... 13 19 15 26-47

D.C. DMV's Office Party

The Daly City office of the Department of Motor Vehicles is throwing a party, and you're invited.

Manager L. T. Buchanan has announced that a community open house, complete with dignitaries, entertainment, contests and refreshments, will be held at the DMV office, 1500 Sullivan Ave., Jan. 7.

That date marks the first Saturday which the Daly City office will be open to provide customers with complete Tuesday-through-Saturday vehicle registration and driver licensing service.

"We plan to have a special program during the early afternoon, but there will be exhibits and activities all day long," Buchanan said.

He added that while normal DMV service will be provided for any persons wishing to transact business that day, all persons are welcome to visit the office, get acquainted and share in the festivities.

Working with the manager in planning for the celebration will be its community advisory panel, represented by Dorothy Carr. "We want to involve the entire community in the celebration," Buchanan said.

The Daly City office normally serves the communities of Brisbane, South San Francisco, Pacifica, San Bruno, San Francisco and western San Francisco. It is one of nine offices statewide which will be providing Saturday service during the pilot. It will be open beginning the first week in January on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Fridays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Other offices within a 15-mile radius of the Daly City office are San Francisco, San Mateo and Corte Madera. All of them will retain Monday through Friday schedules. Some will provide evening service on Wednesdays and Thursdays.

"The switch to Saturday service is one which is creating some personal hardships for many of our employees," Buchanan pointed out. "But each of us is attempting to make personal adjustments because we recognize that our traditional hours of service were not necessarily adequate to meet the needs of the public — friends and neighbors whom we serve."

"By conducting a community open house on the first Saturday we're open, we hope not only to acquaint our fellow residents of this area with our new service hours, but also to get to know more of them as individuals. That way we can help them resolve their motoring needs as one neighbor to another."

Buchanan extended an invitation to all the community to attend the festivities and urged those who could help out by providing entertainment, displays or other things of public interest to contact him.

Skyline Dramatists Offer New Comedy

"Not by Bed Alone" will be presented by members of Skyline College's Drama Dept. during the first two weekends in January.

The comedy will be performed Jan. 5-7 and Jan. 12-14 at the college studio theatre, curtain time at 8 p.m. for each performance.

S.A.F.E. Discusses Problems

The Southwest Valley Block Council of S.A.F.E., a federally-funded crime prevention program and over 25 of its members, met recently to discuss neighborhood problems that fall uniquely within the Daly City and San Francisco jurisdictional boundaries in the Visitation Valley area.

Daly City Mayor Al Tegli was invited to attend the meeting in an effort to answer issues that have plagued the Daly City residents as well as the San Francisco homeowners in the area. Tegli explained some of Daly City's many on-going programs and available facilities and encouraged the people to participate in their community.

He then responded to questions from S.A.F.E. council members concerning solving a number of the jurisdictional problems besetting the neighborhood. Attending the meeting as a representative of the Daly City Clean Community Committee was Publicity Chairman Patricia Tatarian.

Block Captain John King chaired the meeting in the absence of Chairperson Arnette Brooks, who was unable to attend. The meeting was at Rev. Alexander Thompson's St. Phillips Baptist Church at Velasco and Santos streets in San Francisco.

S.A.F.E. Coordinator for the Visitation Valley area Gary Yoes reported on stop sign locations going up before the Police and Fire Safety Commission of the San Francisco Board of Supervisors.

PROMOTED

An official at Clark AB, Philippines, has announced the promotion of Emiliano S. Delos Santos Jr. to staff sergeant in the U.S. Air Force.

Delos Santos, son of Mrs. Magdalena S. Delos Santos, 2254 Derry Way, South San Francisco, is a precision measuring equipment specialist with a unit of the Pacific Air Forces.

CLUB

deal with a problem," Callaghan says. "However, our county Probation Department led the way for productive change in the way a community deals with delinquency."

Through Tri-Cities Alternatives, the Boys' Club now provides 24-hour-a-day individual, group and family counseling. It's part of a three-year Law Enforcement Assistance Administration federal grant, and last year saw 280 families seek for some sort of counseling. This year Callaghan estimates more than 350 families will seek counseling.

It has helped succeed, he says, because law enforcement officials are referring juveniles and their families to local diversion projects such as Tri-Cities Alternatives.

"The Boys' Club believes that this is a component of our overall program to provide for complete youth services," Callaghan adds. "We're able to meet all the needs of local youth between six and 18."

Callaghan, who's been involved in boys' clubs for 14 years, the past six at the South San Francisco facility, says, "I'll never again operate a boys' club without counseling. The Boys' Club is the front line in dealing with the urban family. To me, it's now inconceivable to operate without formal counseling services."

"I've personally seen the tremendous help this has given to families — and that's the test. We have a lot of people going through the counseling — and have results coming out the other end."

Of course the Boys' Club still provides its traditional services, like arts and crafts, athletics, boxing, judo, billiards and other related table games, sailing, movies, field trips, parties, photography, paper mache, soccer and guitar lessons.

The Boys' Club also has a tutorial reading program for boys and girls in grades one through six.

With its membership rolls nearing 1,500 from all of North County, Callaghan explains that the club is about the "best-funded program around," with a $220,000 annual budget. The money comes from the United Way, from small foundation grants, individual donations, corporate gifts, federal revenue sharing funds and various fund-raisers.

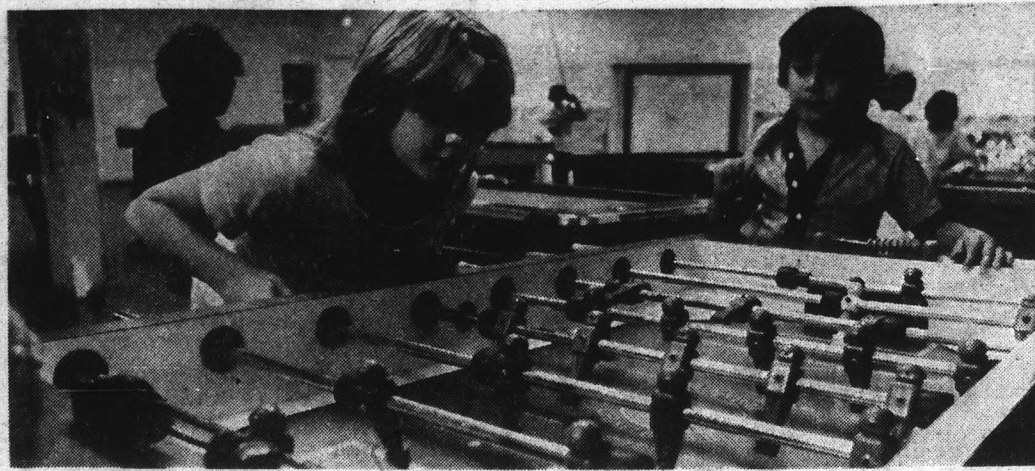

As for the future, Callaghan says the greatest need is to "plan where we are going to be 10 or 20 years from now. We can't allow ourselves to become apathetic."

And, of course, we'll continue to develop our programs, such as remedial reading, sailing and judo, bigger and better. Our other programs already are bigger and better.

Pacifica Sets Youth Films At Library

Pacifica Library shows films for children every Friday afternoons at 3:30. On Dec. 23, two holiday cartoons will be shown. "The Little Drummer Boy," a Christmas story about a boy who plays the drum for the newborn Christ, and "Cricket in Times Square," a story of a musical cricket and the changes he brings to Times Square.

On Dec. 30, "The Amazing Cosmic Awareness of Duffy Moon," a live action story of Duffy Moon who tries by cosmic awareness to keep from being bullied, is scheduled.

Colma Eyes Turnover In Treasurer Post

As Colma's town treasurer submitted his resignation Wednesday, a candidate turned up to offer his services for the position.

Mario Artau, Colma's treasurer for the past two years, submitted a letter of resignation to the Town Council Wednesday.

Artau said his resignation is "due to unfortunate circumstances." He said he must continue to "protect my late father's estate" by living outside Colma.

The council had been concerned about Artau's residency since the treasurer moved to Daly City almost a year ago.

Artau told the council that he was obliged to live at his late father's house to protect it from vandals. He could not estimate when the estate would be settled and he could return to his Colma house.

Joseph Messina, an employee of Woodlawn Memorial Park, picked up papers for the treasurer's post Wednesday.

Messina, a former town planning commissioner, told Town Clerk Frances Liston he would like to be appointed to the position before the March election.

School-Closing Decision Looms

By TERRY DAVENPORT

Drastic decisions on the future of the Laguna Salada Union School District will have to be made in February, the Board of Trustees learned Thursday night.

During that month, trustees are scheduled to decide which of the district's 15 schools to close, which will house a new back-to-basics program and which, if any, may be sold to the City of Pacifica.

Trustees were disappointed to learn that the long-awaited needs assessment study the county Office of Education conducted during most of 1977 will not be ready in time to help them make the crucial decisions.

Assistant Superintendent Marv Morganti said the study will not be ready until February. Trustees plan to decide which schools to close at their Feb. 16 meeting in order to decide by March how many teachers and principals the district will need next September.

However, Morganti commented that he will attempt to get trustees some data from the study relevant to school closing before the formal needs assessment report is made.

Trustees decided to hold a study session on Jan. 9 on the topic, "Advantages and Disadvantages of Closing Schools."

Board Chairman Grady Hesters observed that he was impressed with the 318 replies that the structured school committee received to a recent survey.

"We hardly ever get that kind of response," Hesters said.

The committee has so many parents interested in placing children in back-to-basics classes that the board decided to designate a school for the alternative program. Children in the structured school will be taught basic subjects in traditional classrooms and they will be expected to do homework and observe a strict dress code.

In response to questions from Committee Chairman

Fred Jones, trustees said they soon will determine a school site, set a date for registration and assign staff to conduct the program.

Trustees mentioned that they also will take into consideration a request by the City of Pacifica to buy either Yallemar or Crespi School for a City Hall and storage area for city vehicles.

Over objections of two representatives of the Laguna Salada Educational Association, a teachers' union, the board decided to institute "Opportunity Classes" to deal with unruly and failing students.

Trustee Marilyn Wills pointed out that removing such students from regular classrooms will give the majority of students and their teachers fewer problems with which to contend.

Another trustee, Curtis Landers, emphasized, "It is not the most difficult children we will place in this program. If we do not feel they will benefit, we will not place them in this."

Hesters said he probably wouldn't have voted for such a program when he first sat on the board three years ago. He remarked that Thornton High School in the Jefferson Union High School District convinced him that such a program can work.

Anne Shea, LSEA president, objected, "I think the problem is getting better facilities and extra counseling in the regular seventh and eighth-grade setting. ... We seem to be going at this backwards."

Mrs. Shea said she based her contention on a survey of seventh and eighth-grade teachers last year. In that survey, teachers said they believed funding to be inadequate and class sizes too large.

Landers countered, "No matter what you do in your regular program, there are still going to be a number of unadaptable."

An evaluation portion was added to the program before trustees approved it.

In other business:

• As required by the state, the district surveyed all students and found four speak no English and 20 speak limited English.

• Trustees asked staff to draft a contract with Mr. and Mrs. George Selix, allowing them to live in a mobile home on the Pitto Ranch. This excess school site has been wracked with vandalism.

• Trustees approved liability insurance in the amount of $113,936 with Levinson Bros., Inc. The cost is down $20,000 since last year.

• Certificated management personnel won a raise in base salary from $16,800 to $17,345 per year and classified management and confidential personnel obtained a 3 1/4 percent pay increase. Both are retroactive to July 1, 1977.

• The staff was authorized to obtain bids for two additional school buses.

Friends Help Centers

Whatever its budgetary and philosophical problems may be, one major service of the Mental Health Association of San Mateo County is getting lots of support.

Melissa Platte, coordinator for the association-sponsored friendship centers, reported a total of $1,121 has been received to create Christmas at the centers.

The friendship centers are usually maintained in meeting areas at churches throughout the county and at the Belmont Hills Center. It offers those recovering from mental illness an opportunity to socialize and encourages participation to help restore confidence in public contact.

Ms. Platte said the funds also made it possible to add to holiday events, including gifts and refreshments at the 2-N. Ward at Chope Community Hospital and the Crystal Springs Rehabilitation Center. An additional $229 will go to Napa State Hospital.

The good news was happily received by the association's board of directors at its meeting this week.

However, board member Sally Mishkind cautioned, "Just be sure the gift (gets to San Mateo County residents) and someone doesn't raid what you have planned as a good deed. There are about 100 San Mateo County people there (in Napa) now."

SSF Parent Concerns Over Closings

By BILL HURSCHMANN
A dozen speakers appeared before the South San Francisco Unified School District Board of Trustees Thursday night to air their concerns about probable school closures in the city.

And, as about 75 persons jammed the board chambers in the district offices near South San Francisco

High School, two points kept reappearing: Parents neither wish the quality of education to suffer nor do they want their respective neighborhood schools closed.

Trustees in mid-November received the results of a study conducted by Edward H. LaFranchi, professor emeritus at the University of Southern California, who suggested the district should consider "promptly" the closing of two, possibly three, schools by the fall of 1979.

LaFranchi said schools should be closed because of declining enrollment — which he predicted will continue beyond 1983. He said the district's peak enrollment in the 1973-74 school year of 13,399 will dwindle to 8,590 by 1982-83. The district's enrollment is 11,933.

The professor estimated the district could save up to $300,000 by closing three schools.

After district trustees listened to parents, Board Chairwoman Valerie Lambertson promised that trustees will hold a special meeting Jan. 5 to decide how many and which schools will be closed by next fall.

She said the board, during the Christmas holidays, will consider the public input received Thursday night, the LaFranchi report and a report received by a committee of parents in the district before each board member makes an independent decision.

"Our concern," she said, "is for the children in the schools."

That also was the concern of several parents.

"If we close some schools," said Pat Nobis, 616 Larch Ave., president of the Hillside School PTA, "I want to know how this will affect the quality of education. We don't want our children to be subjected to a lower quality of education."

Nobis said he also is concerned about busing and the possibility of overcrowded classrooms. However, Nobis learned later that district teachers have maximum class size mandates as part of their contract.

"Are we really going to save money or are we just going to transfer costs (into additional transportation needs) and have the quality of education suffer?" he asked.

Another parent, Beth Weldon, said parents "have a lot of questions and we, as a group, need more answers. We want to work with you, not against you. But we can't do this if you keep us in the dark."

Other parents expressed concerns about actual cost-saving benefits and whether special programs such as bilingual education might suffer.

Some of their concerns were put to rest by other parents.

Marge Blank, who chaired the citizens committee on school closures, said, "I'm disturbed when I hear parents say they don't want to have the quality of education decline at our schools. I don't think, by closing schools... that your teachers will be any less than the fine educators they are now."

"If you make the decision to close a school," said Marilyn Heard, a parent in the Ponderosa School area, "I have confidence our programs will remain. If you have to close a school, you'll do so with all the facts."

Skyline Offers English

A series of courses in English as a Second Language will be offered at Skyline College during the day and on Saturday mornings starting in the spring semester Jan. 30.

The program will include courses under the guidance of instructors Eve Daniels, Genevieve Lau, Betty Lindgren and Clara Poor.

They are English 57 (Grammar and Writing) daily at 8, 9 and 10 a.m. and Saturdays from 9 a.m. to noon.

English 58 (Reading) is Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 9 a.m., 10 a.m. or 11 a.m.

Speech 57 (Speaking and Listening) is Tuesday and Thursday at 9 a.m. or 10 a.m.

There also is a tutorial service available as well as financial aid under the college's Economic Opportunity Program.

Registration is open now. For further information about this program contact the college's Communication-Fine Arts Division, phone 355-7000, ext. 202 or write to Skyline College, 3300 College Drive, San Bruno 94066.

Pacifica Srs. Greet New Year

Seniors in Action will celebrate the new year with a party at Oddstad Center in Pacifica from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m., Dec. 30. A potluck lunch will be served at noon, with an entree specialty provided by the center.

After lunch, party-goers will dance to the music of Pacifican Norm Dutton's Oceanshore Xpress quintet, playing a medley of old favorites and a few rock numbers.

The new year will be introduced unofficially at 2 p.m. with a rendition of Auld Lang Syne. All senior citizens are welcome. For food choices and reservations call Seniors in Action at 355-3764.

Library Aids Impaired In Pacifica

Special services are available at the library to persons who for reasons of health, age or limited mobility have difficulty coming to the library. This includes those with temporary (a new baby, children with measles, broken legs, etc.) as well as permanent immobility.

For details, call Irene Severn, Pacifica Library, 355-5106, or Jane Wilks, Sanchez Library, 359-2000. The coordinators will select materials for the patron according to their reading taste or take requests. Deliveries will then be made by appointment.

All library materials, including books, prints, records and cassettes, are available. The loan period is arranged for the convenience of the patron and no overdue fines will be charged.

Pacifica Rec Signups Soon

Registration for winter recreation programs will be Jan. 7 at Sharp Park School between 10 a.m. and 12 noon. Volunteers are needed to assist in program registration. There will be a volunteer orientation meeting Jan. 4 at 7 p.m. at Sharp Park School.

Volunteers may pre-register for P.B. and R. classes following orientation. Call 355-4151, ext. 33 to sign up.

Methodists Set Theme

"Christmas Expectations" is the theme of the 10 a.m. Christmas Sunday worship at Daly City United Methodist Church, 1474 Southgate Avenue, announces Pastor David R. Swope. Lectorian lesson will be provided by the Chancel Choir, directed by Jack Liban.

The Christmas Eve worship service will be at 7:30 p.m. and will feature a candlelighting observance. Music will be provided by the Swope sisters, Nancy and Judy. Nancy will play the violin and Judy the piano.

Pastor Swope will tell William J. Locke's story, "A Christmas Mystery."

Holy Angels High Mass

The Holy Angels Church Parish Choir will present a concelebrated High Mass in Latin this Christmas at Midnight Mass Saturday evening.

A program of Christmas carols will be presented at 11:15-11:45 p.m., followed by a Grand Entrance Processional at 11:55 p.m. Parish organizations and the entire congregation will be invited to participate in the Grand Procession.

The choir is under the direction of Mrs. Pat Campbell; organist is Mrs. Margaret Kerns and guest trumpeter will be Nick Moore. The church is at 107 San Pedro Road, Colma. The public is invited.

Shrine Game Ticket Sales

Tickets now are on sale for the 1977 Shrine East-West Football Game and Pageant, scheduled for Dec. 31 at Stanford Stadium.

More than 120,000 fans have attended the past two Shrine East-West games. Tickets are priced at $7.50 for reserved, and $5 for unreserved (with a special four-plan of unreserved seats for $15), and are available at all BASS, Ticketron, Macy's, Montgomery Ward and Emporium/Capwell's outlets; at the East-West Ticket Office, 1651 — 19th Avenue, San Francisco 94122, and other major ticket agencies. For all local ticket agencies, call 681-0291.

Mary's Help Gets A Grant

The William Randolph Hearst Foundation recently granted $5,000 to Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City to be used to expand and modernize ancillary, critical care and emergency facilities.

The purpose of the William Randolph Hearst Foundation is to support non-profit organizations working with education, youth, culture, religion, relief of the poor, community improvement and medical research. Hospitals are only one category of organization the foundation supports with financial aid.

Mary's Help Hospital is a general community hospital with 360 licensed beds and operated by the Daughters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul. The current facility, which has been in service since 1965 when the Daughters of Charity moved their hospital from San Francisco to Daly City, is undergoing a $42 million construction program for the expansion of facilities to meet community needs.
